ROLL OF HONOUR.

FOGERTY—October 19, 1919, at Ras-el-tin Military Hospital, Alexandria, while on active service, Lieutenant William Perrott Fogerty, 57th (Wildes) Rifles, F.F., dearly-beloved and only surviving child of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fogerty, Ennis, aged 20 years.

"And with the morn those angel faces smile
Which we have loved . . . . and lost awhile."

IN MEMORIAM.

BARSBY—Second Anniversary—In proud and loving memory of my dear son, Trooper Charles Barsby, South Irish Horse, who was killed in action October 30th, 1917. Deeply regretted by his mother, brothers, and sisters. "Thy will be done."

We little thought when you came home
That you came to say good-bye,
For you went away so bravely,
Not thinking death was nigh.
We never will forget your loving words
You said to sooth our pain—
"Don't worry, mother," were his last words,
"I'll soon be home again."

BROWN—In proud and loving memory of James William Brown, youngest son of the late Thomas Benjamin and Harriet Brown, Londonderry, First Officer ss. Lexington, who gave his life in the discharge of his duty while securing the safety of his ship, on October 29, 1917. Buried at sea 30th October.

". . . Faithful unto death."
"I will give thee a Crown of Life."

DUKE—In loving memory of Alexander M. Duke, R.F.A., who died at Fargo Hospital, Salisbury Plain, October 30th, 1918, only son of G. N. and Mrs. Duke, William st., Kilkenny.

ENNIS—In loving memory of Lieutenant Edward A. (Eddie) Ennis, who died of gas poisoning, received in action, October 30th, 1918, only and dearly-loved son of the late Edward A. Ennis, B.L., 26 Pembroke rd., Dublin.

HARDING—In loving memory of James Golding Harding, Captain, Royal Field Artillery, killed in action, in France, October 30th, 1917. R.I.P.

McCLURE—In loving memory of my nephew, William McClure, R.I.R., killed in action 25th October, 1918.

MEYERS—In loving memory of Harry Deverill Meyers, Captain, R.A.S.C., beloved son of J. C. Meyers and Mrs. Meyers, Casino, Milltown, Co. Dublin, who died 30th October, 1918, in George V. Hospital, of pneumonia, contracted on active service. "Absent from the body and present with the Lord."

SIMINGTON—In loving memory of Joseph M. Simington, Cadet, Royal Dublin Fusiliers (formerly of the Officers' Training Corps, T.C.D.), who died on October 30, 1918, aged 19 years.

STARKEY—In loving memory of Edward Starkey, Canadian Field Ambulance, killed at Passchendaele, October 30th, 1918.

IMPAIRED DIGESTION

is the prime cause of a number of ailments; it gives rise to pain and weakness; it is the high road to chronic ill-health. This being the case, it is evident that the treatment of this condition cannot begin too soon. Many people find it a satisfactory way to keep Beecham's Pills by them, ready to take whenever they feel they are developing symptoms of digestive trouble. Beecham's Pills are a safe remedy, and a sure one. Their aperient, corrective and tonic properties are always of great service in the early stage of digestive derangement. The tone of the stomach may be

RESTORED BY

Beecham's Pills and by their use the healthy activity of the liver and the regularity of the bowels may be maintained. Not only does this excellent preparation relieve and remove digestive troubles; it can prevent them. An occasional dose is often all that is necessary to insure good health. Let it be your aim, by exercising reasonable care in the important matters of diet and exercise, to preserve your digestion unimpaired; but if, in spite of your efforts, this unfortunate condition should arise, lose no time in seeking the efficient assistance of

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF CHARITABLE BEQUESTS.
In the Goods of
ELIZABETH JACKSON WILSON, of Coolcarrigan, Kilcock, in the County of Kildare, Widow, Deceased.

Notice is hereby Given, pursuant to the Statute 30 and 31 Vic., cap. 54, Sec. 15, intituled "An Act to Amend the Law of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland," that the above-named Elizabeth Jackson Wilson, who died on the 20th day of April, 1919, by her Will, dated the 1st day of February, 1918, bequeathed to her daughter, Lady Jane Georgina Wright, and her grandson, Leonard Almroth Wilson Wright, the moneys lent to her by her late husband in the joint names of her husband and herself, and which were then represented by £2,000 Belfast Corporation 3½ Per Cent. Stock (1950), 2,000 Edinburgh Canadian Mortgage Company Preference Shares of £1 each, and £2,000 Great Southern and Western Railway Company 4 Per Cent. Preference Stock, or such parts of same as she should not have disposed of before her death, and which said moneys were thereinafter called "The Charity Fund," same to be held by the said Lady Jane Georgina Wright and Leonard Almroth Wilson Wright upon trust, to invest £4,000 thereof in their names, and out of the income thereof apply and pay the sum of £50 per annum as a stipend for the Clergyman for the time being of Coolcarrigan Church, and she desired that the said Clergyman of the said Church for the time being should celebrate at least one Church of Ireland Service in the said Church each week, and in default of his so doing she thereby authorised her Trustees to withhold the said stipend for any year in which he should so fail unless he should explain such default to the satisfaction of her Trustees. And she directed her Trustees to apply the remaining Income of the said sum of £4,000 (including the said sum of £50, if the same should be withheld as aforesaid) towards the maintenance, insurance, and upkeep, lighting, cleaning, and general repair of the said Church and the Graveyard and the Path or Road leading thereto. And as regards the balance if any (over and above the said sum of £4,000) of The Charity Fund she thereby declared (but nevertheless without imposing upon her said Daughter and Grandson any legal or equitable obligation, condition, trust, or election whatsoever) that it was her wish that after her death her said Daughter and Grandson should in so far as they thought proper pay and apply the same for the benefit of the Charitable Objects which had prior to the date of her Will been indicated by her to her said Daughter and Grandson. And she declared that it should be lawful for her said Daughter and Grandson to apply such part of the capital of the said balance as in their absolute discretion they should think proper to any of the said purposes without being accountable therefor.

The said Will was proved and Probate thereof granted on the 8th day of August, 1919, forth of the Principal Registry, King's Bench Division (Probate) of the High Court of Justice in Ireland, to the said Lady Jane Georgina Wright, of 22 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, and the said Leonard Almroth Wilson Wright, of Coolcarrigan, County Kildare, the Executors therein named.

Dated this 6th day of October, 1919.
JOHN BRISTOW, 8 Wellington place, Belfast, Solicitor for the said Executors.
To the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests, Ireland, and all others concerned.

STATUTORY NOTICE TO CREDITORS.
In the Goods of
MRS. MARY ANN MOORHEAD, late of Errigle, Cootehill, in the County of Cavan, and of St. Edward's, Adelaide street, Kingstown, in the County of Dublin, Widow, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Statute 22 and 23 Victoria, Cap. 35, that all persons claiming to be creditors or otherwise to have any claim or demands against the estate or effects of the above-named Mary Ann Moorhead, deceased, who died testate on or about the 13th day of November, 1918, are hereby required, on or before the 9th day of December, 1919, to furnish (in writing) full particulars of such claims and demands to the undersigned Solicitor for the Executors of the said Deceased, to whom Probate of the estate and effects of said Deceased was on the 28th of May, 1919, granted forth of the Principal Registry of the High Court of Justice in Ireland, King's Bench Division (Probate).

And Notice is hereby further given that after the said 9th day of December, 1919, the said Executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Deceased, having regard only to the claims and demands of which notice and particulars shall then have been given as above required.

Dated this 27th day of October, 1919.
JOHN GILLESPIE, Solicitor for the Executors of said Deceased, 48 Dame street, Dublin, Monaghan, and Castleblayney.

COUNTY LOUTH.

IMPORTANT SALE OF LARGE
GRAZING OR TILLAGE FARM,
WITH GENTLEMAN'S RESIDENCE, EXTENSIVE OUT-OFFICES AND SPLENDID FRUIT AND VEGETABLE GARDEN ATTACHED, HELD IN FEE-SIMPLE,
At GREENMOUNT, CASTLEBELLINGHAM.

I HAVE been instructed by Captain E. P. Butler (who is going abroad)
To SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION,
On MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd, 1919 (Fair Day),
At My SALEROOMS, DUNLEER,
At 1.30 o'clock,

His Estate, Right, Title, and Interest in all that and those, that part of the LANDS OF GREENMOUNT, situate in the Electoral Division of Castlebellingham, Barony of Ardee, and County of Louth, containing 200 ACRES and 26 PERCHES (Statute measure), or thereabouts, held in Fee-Simple, subject to an annuity of £210, payable to the Irish Land Commission. Poor Law Valuation, £249 10/-.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

The LANDS are all in grass, of very superior quality (with the exception of about 20 Acres of Tillage), and are well known for their feeding and fattening properties. They are laid out in convenient-sized divisions, well watered, fenced, and sheltered. There is a valuable lot of TIMBER on the Holding, something like 1,000 large Trees; also the Fishing Rights which the Vendor holds on the River Dee shall go to the purchaser.

This excellent Farm is in the middle of a lovely countryside, very centrally situated, being on the main road from Dublin to Belfast, midway between the important towns of Drogheda and Dundalk, one mile from Castlebellingham and two miles from Dunleer—all good fair and market towns.

The HOUSE (known as GREENMOUNT HOUSE), which stands on beautifully laid-out grounds, is large and very comfortable, and commands a lovely view of the River Dee. It is approached by front and back avenues, with gate lodge, and is nicely studded with trees.

It contains entrance hall, drawingroom, diningroom, reception room, 8 bedrooms, study, smoke-room, office, dairy, pantry, kitchen and larder. There is a large walled-in garden, well stocked with all classes of fruit trees and vegetables; extensive greenhouse, which makes it one of the finest gardens in the county. The OUT-OFFICES are commodious and substantial, and consist of harness-room, coach house, garage, wash house, loose boxes and stabling for 10 horses, cow stables, cattle sheds, hay and corn lofts, tool house, etc.

This is a rare opportunity for anyone on the look-out for a first-class Farm and a charming Residence.

All rent and taxes will be paid up to the last gale day, and IMMEDIATE POSSESSION will be given on completion of purchase.

For further Particulars and Conditions of Sale, apply to

R. ESPINASSE, Esq., Solicitor, having Carriage of Sale, Dundalk; or to

M. MURTAGH,
AUCTIONEER, DUNLEER.

COUNTY LOUTH.

IMPORTANT AND ATTRACTIVE SALE OF
THREE SPLENDID FARMS OF LAND,
With handsome Residence and extensive Out-offices, including large Hay Barn,
At KELLYSTOWN and BRITTAS, DUNLEER.

I HAVE been favoured with instructions from the Administratrix of the late John Dolan, Esq., to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION,
In Three Lots,
On MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd, 1919 (Fair Day),
At my SALEROOMS, DUNLEER,
At One o'clock.

LOT 1.

All that Farm of Land, being part of the Lands of Kellystown, containing about 96 acres 2 roods and 9 perches, statute measure, in the Electoral Division of Termonfeckin, Barony of Drogheda and County of Louth, agreed to be purchased under the Land Purchase (Ireland) Acts at the annuity of £40 13/6, payable half-yearly to the Irish Land Commission until vested, when the annuity will be reduced. Poor Law Valuation, £81 15/-.

LOT 2.

All that Farm of Land, being part of the Lands of Brittas, containing about 43 acres and 33 perches, statute measure, in the Electoral Division of Termonfeckin, Barony of Ferrard and County of Louth, held in Fee-simple, subject to an annuity to the Irish Land Commission of £20, payable half-yearly.

LOT 3.

All that Farm of Land, being part of the Lands of Brittas, containing about 44 acres 3 roods and 38 perches, statute measure, in the Electoral Division of Clogher, Barony of Ferrard and County of Louth, held in Fee-simple, subject to an annuity to the Irish Land Commission of £20, payable half-yearly.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

LOT 1—Kellystown is situated about four miles from Drogheda and three miles from Dunleer, both important fair and market towns. The lands are of superior quality, and are in the highest state of cultivation, the late owner having spared neither labour nor expense in improving the holding. There are 10 acres of very highly manured land, 10 acres stubble land, about 30 acres new and second crop meadows, and the remainder is laid down in permanent pasture. The fields are nicely laid out in convenient size, well watered, fenced, and sheltered, and are almost surrounded by the county road, which makes them very easy of access. There is also a very comfortable labourer's cottage and garden on the lands, belonging to the Vendors, very convenient to the farmyard.

The Dwellinghouse, a fine substantial Two-storeyed Building, contains hall, drawingroom, diningroom, 4 bedrooms, 2 servants' rooms, kitchen, dairy, pantry, all of which are in perfect order, and it is approached by a neat little avenue, nicely ornamented with shrubs. There is a large fruit and vegetable garden at the rear.

The Out-offices, which are in excellent order, surround a well laid out farmyard, consist of large hay barn, stabling for six horses, stall-feeding sheds for 20 cattle, cow stables, loose boxes for young stock, piggery, fowl-house, car-house, turnip-house, coal-house, tool-house, two large corn lofts, and a never-failing supply of water from a pump on the premises.

LOT 2—Brittas (West) is situate about five miles from Drogheda and two miles from Dunleer. The lands are of first-class quality, and are all in grass, with the exception of about four acres, which are laid down in new meadow. They are approached on both sides by the county road. The fields are of a convenient size, well fenced and sheltered, with a never-failing stream running through the farm.

LOT 3—Brittas (East) is situate about four and a half miles from Drogheda and two and a half miles from Dunleer. The Lands, which are all under grass, are of the primest quality. The fields are evenly divided, and would make an excellent mixed grazing or tillage farm.

All rent and taxes will be paid up to the last gale day, and immediate possession will be given on completion of purchase.

For further particulars and Conditions of Sale apply to

Messrs. THOMAS GERRARD and CO., Solicitors having Carriage of Sale, 26 Westmoreland street, Dublin, and 5 Laurence street, Drogheda; or to

CONFIDENCE

The proprietors of Gibsol confidently believe that in supplying their ointment to the public they are supplying a first-class standard preparation for the skin at lowest possible price.

The reason for the low price is simply "quantity production." If Gibsol was compounded specially for each case it would be a costly medicine. It is an ointment with a wonderful record of cures in cases of Ringworm, Eczema, Piles, Skin Irritation, Cuts, Wounds, Sores, Burns, and all kinds of Skin Trouble.

This is an instance of what patients say about it:—

SIRS,

Please send me out by return a box of Gibsol Ointment for ringworm on a boy's head. I got it from you before now, and it is real good.

Yours truly,
(Mrs.) E. E. M.,
Oldcastle.

The Irish Times.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1919.

Lord Buckmaster's motion in the House of Lords that further taxation should be instantly imposed was yesterday rejected by 52 votes to 13.

Reviewing our financial position in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain said that, while there was every reason for caution, there was no reason for panic. It would not be necessary to introduce a second Budget, and, unless the House insisted upon fresh expenditure, there would be no necessity for new taxation next year. Further, at the close of next year there would be a surplus available for the reduction of our debts. He gave particulars of the reductions which are being effected in the Navy and the Army and in the several departments, stated that the Treasury had been reformed, that steps were being taken to secure better financial control, and that a Finance Committee of the Cabinet had been formed.

The railways would be made self-supporting, the bread subsidy would be continued for some time, but the out-of-work donation would cease, in the case of civilians, on November 21st. He rejected the proposal of a levy on capital, but invited the co-operation of the House in considering the problem of a tax on war profits and exploring possible means of economising.

Sir Horace Plunkett, speaking at the National Liberal Club, London, yesterday, said that the British Government must at once substitute civil management for Prussian militarism in Ireland. One way to do that was to withdraw the Army. Never again must British military forces be employed for the support of any political system in any part of Ireland. They should offer Ireland the status of a Dominion with defence reservations. The difficulties of Ireland could only be settled by the Irish people themselves.

While searching for stolen property in Cork yesterday the police found a large quantity of gelignite and ammunition. Two arrests were effected.

While standing near his house in Skibbereen yesterday a farmer named McCarthy was fired on by disguised men, who later discharged shots into his house. McCarthy was uninjured. No arrests were made.

In London the Stock Markets were irregular, and speculative departments much quieter. Money was scarcer, and loans were made at 3½, and late in the day at 3 per cent. Discounts were firmer. Silver rose sharply to 5s. 6½d. per oz. In Dublin prices generally moved to a lower level. Sewing Cottons exceptionally improved.

The Financial Debate.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has become an optimist. When he made his last important statement in August his pessimism was profound. Then he spoke under the shadow of national bankruptcy; but now he tells us that things are not as they seem; they are much better. Mr. Chamberlain's speech yesterday will freshen his rather faded oratorical laurels; but, although it has created an atmosphere of temporary optimism in the House of Commons, it has left a great deal unsaid. Doubtless, Mr. Bonar Law and the Prime Minister will fill up the gaps. The situation is grave. There is every reason for caution and economy; there is none for panic. Such is the burden of the Chancellor's song. The White Papers came as a shock to the public, simply because it had not paid sufficient attention to Mr. Chamberlain's warnings. Although the papers do not disclose a perfect state of affairs, their figures are more encouraging than Mr. Chamberlain had hoped in August. Taxed revenue is coming in "extraordinarily well." The increase of £4,000,000 in stamp duties shows that business is flourishing; that of £14,000,000 in tobacco duties is an indication that the public has plenty of money to spend. Again, reductions in expenditure were taking effect much earlier than Mr. Chamberlain had anticipated, and there would no longer be a necessity to impose new taxation next year, unless Parliament wished to increase the sum available for old age pensions or to hasten the liquidation of the National Debt. The increased deficit was largely due to deferment of receipts to next year. The absolute increase in expenditure was £135,000,000. Of this sum £97,500,000 was absorbed in items which the Chancellor dared his critics to challenge. The Government could not help the delay in the conclusion of peace with Turkey, which was to blame for many of our financial worries. There was unrest in Egypt, a war in Afghanistan, and ever-recurring strikes at home.

The Chancellor dwelt upon the things which the Government already had accomplished. A Cabinet Finance Committee has been created. He has reformed the Treasury, established a proper system of control, co-ordinated every branch under a permanent head, and increased the staff. Mr. Chamberlain was firm about his staffs. Not only will he not reduce them, but he asserts that they are far too small. Revenue is being lost through penny-wisdom; and, indeed, if all the much criticised staffs were to be reduced to their pre-war dimensions, "only" £22,000,000 would be saved. What will the Prime Minister say? Mr. Chamberlain must surely have mislaid his copy of the Deauville encyclical of last August, or possibly a depleted Post Office staff was unable to deliver it at Downing street. Mr. Lloyd George's statements then were fairly explicit. Clearly Mr. Chamberlain considers that they were unnecessarily severe. In regard to subsidies, Mr. Chamberlain's most important announcement was that the bread subsidy, contrary to Mr. Lloyd George's Sheffield assurance, would be continued. The railways, on the other hand, will soon be in a position to pay their own way by means of a "revision" of the rates. Does this mean increased railway fares? If such be the case, no real saving will be effected. The public may be consoled, however, by the knowledge that "we are leading the way in disarmament among the nations of the world." Reductions of half a million British soldiers are being made. Chinese labourers and Indian camp-followers are being disbanded. By May 1st, 1920, the last soldier will have left French-Belgian soil, while the personnel of the Navy will soon be reduced to 146,000 officers and men. This news will please the "pacificists," but the intelligent man would have preferred to learn that the civil services had been reduced to a minimum first of all.

There will be no autumn Budget, and Mr. Chamberlain refuses to discuss the project of a levy on capital. As we have said repeatedly, a levy on capital is bad business, and Britain's need to-day demands as much capital as can be released for industrial and commercial purposes. A tax on war fortunes, however, is regarded by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in a more favourable light. In common with most people, he supports it in the abstract, but is not blind to the enormous difficulties which stand in the way of its execution. He suggests that a Select Committee of the House of Commons be formed to deal with the matter, and we think that he has chosen by far the wisest course. Nothing can be gained by "panic" legislation. The resolution of confidence will not be passed without a great deal of discussion, and the amendments which have been proposed show that the Government is not at all safe. On one point, however, Mr. Chamberlain's speech is encouraging. He has taken the people's representatives, in some measure at any rate, into his confidence. If his colleagues follow suit to-morrow, all may be well. One cannot but feel, on the other hand, that much of Mr. Chamberlain's optimism is political rather than real. The great fact of the £8,000,000,000 debt remains. Furthermore, although he assures us that next year we shall have a substantial balance to help in the reduction of that debt, we cannot forget that he made enormous blunders in his April estimates. What guarantee has the nation that his predictions for next year are correct—or even approximately correct? Before the debate ends Parliament and the nation will require more than mere words and imposing figures to convince them that this time the Government is really in earnest. We are not among those who mistake "hysteria for strength," but to mistake the balm of Mr. Chamberlain's soothing statement for the "acid" test of Ministerial sincerity and efficiency would be an error every whit as grave.

The Fight in Russia.

The arrival of Trotsky in Petrograd has had the effect that everybody expected. His fervid appeals have acted upon the flagging spirits of the Bolshevist forces in exactly the same way as the visits of the Kaiser and Hindenburg to the western front acted upon the spirits of the hard-pressed German troops. General Yudenitch's advance towards the capital has been checked, and he has been forced to yield some of the most important points that he captured last week. Tsarskoe Selo and Pavlovsk have both been reoccupied by the "Red" armies, and heavy fighting is in progress at Krasnoe Selo, an important junction that lies about twelve miles south-west of the city. The really disconcerting news about the fight for Petrograd concerns the attitude of the Baltic States towards the White armies. General Yudenitch had counted upon receiving considerable reinforcements from these sources, but, so far, not a man or a gun has been sent to his aid. All these States are strongly anti-Bolshevist, and, while Russia herself has been torn by chaos and civil war, they have established orderly, civilised Governments of their own. They are anxious to maintain their freedom and independence. Yudenitch and the other anti-Bolshevist leaders, however, have refused to give guarantees that their existence as separate States will be respected in the event of the final overthrow of Bolshevism. Therefore, they hold aloof. General Laidouer, the leader of the Esthonian Army, has made his position perfectly clear. In a statement which we publish to-day he says that, as soon as Yudenitch, Denikin, and Koltchak recognise the Esthonian Republic, all the forces at his command will be placed at their disposal. The Supreme Council at Paris is in a position to compel Denikin and his colleagues to make a definite and unambiguous statement of their attitude towards these anti-Bolshevist States, and the sooner it exerts its authority the better. All the successes that they have won so far have been due to the support which they have received from the Allied and Associated Powers. In the House of Commons last night Mr. Churchill disclosed the extent to which we have supplied stores and munitions to Denikin. As a final contribution we are going to give him stores valued at £15,000,000. The Minister for War also made a very encouraging statement concerning the situation on all the Russian fronts. In addition to liberating enormous tracts of the richest part of Russia, Denikin has taken over 270,000 prisoners, and his Army to-day is stronger than ever it was. The ratio of Bolshevist to anti-Bolshevist forces now is only 460,000 to 640,000, as against 430,000 to 320,000 in March. The adhesion of the Baltic States and Poland to the White Armies would make their strength overwhelming and prove decisive. The defeat of Bolshevism is of vital importance to every country, for, as Colonel Ward, M.P., has pointed out, its aim is not merely to dominate Russia, but to establish the "proletarian dictatorship" throughout the world.

Methodist Union.

To-day at Westminster a conference will be held which Sir Robert Perks describes as "without question the most important Methodist assembly since the death of Wesley in 1791." It is expected to mark the final stage of that process of union among the various sections of Methodism which has been active during the last thirty years. Sir Robert Perks reminds us that from the death of Wesley until 1878—some time after the Church of Ireland was liberally laicised—the Wesleyan Methodist Church remained a clerical autocracy. In that year it reformed itself by putting fifty per cent. of laymen on its governing authority, and so brought itself into line with the other Methodist organisations. In 1891 complete Methodist unity was attained in Canada, and, ten years later, in Australasia. Six years afterwards a fusion of the Methodist New Connexion Church, the Bible Christians, and the Free Methodists gave birth to the United Methodist Church of Great Britain, with its 3,000 churches and nearly 200,000 members. In 1913 the Wesleyan Conference at Plymouth affirmed that "the time has come when a serious effort should be made to unite in one Church organisation the different branches of British Methodism." The war suspended definite progress, but negotiations began in 1917, and to-day's conference will be their outcome. The parties to it will be the Wesleyans, the Primitive Methodists, and the United Methodists, and it is thought that the conference will be able to agree on a satisfactory basis of union. If a united British Methodist Church is achieved, it will have about 4,700 regular ministers, 40,000 lay preachers, 17,000 chapels and mission halls, and a total membership of more than 4,000,000 worshippers. The conference will have the best wishes of all the Protestant Churches in these islands. Union helps reunion, and avoids waste and rivalry in the mission field. A consolidated Methodist Church should be a potent instrument for the spread of Christianity.

Sentiment and Business.

The English Charity Commissioners have turned down their thumbs upon the defenders of the dignity and sanctity of Stratford-on-Avon. The Corporation proposed to sell a piece of land in the town for the purpose of an aluminium factory. A warm resistance was offered by Shakespeare-lovers throughout England; but the Commissioners, with whom the decision rested, have voted in favour of the Vandals. They hold that the possible loss to "world culture"—a vile phrase, which the German-American school of "moral uplift" has foisted on the English language—could not justify the refusal of the factory to Stratford's eager artisans. We are more grieved than surprised by this decision, which accords with the spirit of the times. Literary sentiment and literary reverence have seen their best days. When they try to rally their forces against some new iconoclasm, as at Stratford, they share the fate of the once famous boxers who take to the ring again, but cannot "come back." To-morrow we shall have the aluminium factory at Stratford; and next year, perhaps, a picture-palace in Stoke-Poges churchyard. Yet we must not pretend to be sure that Shakespeare, if he were alive to-day, would resent the factory. He was a supreme poet, but he was also a good burgess and hard-headed man of affairs. As a citizen, he was of the type that the Dublin Chamber of Commerce seeks to put into the City Hall under the system of proportional representation.

MR. SERJEANT HANNA.

The vacancy created in the Serjeantship-at-law by the appointment of Mr. Serjeant Matheson to be Recorder of Belfast has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Henry Hanna, K.C., to the third position. Mr. Serjeant Sullivan becomes First Serjeant, and Mr. Serjeant McSweeny Second Serjeant. Mr. Hanna was called to the Irish Bar in 1896, and to the English Bar in 1913. He is a leader of the North-East Circuit, and enjoys a large practice at the Four Courts. He is the author of several legal works.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A depression centred over the Thames Estuary is at present moving south-west. Over England strong squally winds, mainly from between N.E. and N.W., with showers of rain, hail, or sleet, seem probable. Over Scotland and Ireland less strong winds and fairer conditions are anticipated.

Ireland.—Moderate or fresh northerly to north-easterly breezes; fair or cloudy, local showers; cold.

The existence of foot-and-mouth disease among animals on the premises at Horsington, near Horncastle, Lincolnshire, has been confirmed. The usual precautions have been taken.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer had a fine audience when he rose just before four o'clock to move his resolution. Not many Peers were present owing to the prior claims of the corresponding debate in their own House, but the other galleries were well filled. In the Distinguished Strangers' Gallery was Sir E. Clarke, who is approaching his eightieth year, but shows few signs of his advanced age.

I have heard Mr. Chamberlain make many speeches of varying merit. I have never heard him to more advantage than to-day. Both from a financial and from a political standpoint, the speech was a great success. The Chancellor handled his figures more clearly and skilfully than he sometimes does in his Budget speeches, and, to a large extent, he cut the ground from under the feet of his expected opponents.

Reasoned optimism was his note. Quite early he announced that, unless the House were to sanction new expenditure, there would, in his judgment, be no necessity for new taxation next year. This year's deficit, largely due to the deferment of payment for surplus stores, etc., would be covered by Treasury bills. The Treasury had been strengthened and reorganised, and a Finance Committee of the Cabinet, consisting of the Prime Minister, Mr. Bonar Law, Lord Milner, Sir A. Geddes, and himself, had been set up. This body will, I imagine, owing to the nature of its functions, virtually take the place of the War Cabinet which has now, as we were told at question time, ceased to exist.

Great reductions in departmental staffs have been, and are being, made. But much greater economies will result from the pending reductions of the Army and Navy. It was curious to hear that, while the railway subsidy will go as soon as the new railway rates can be fixed, and the out-of-work donations for civilians, unless the House should insist on renewing it, will come to an end on November 21st, the bread subsidy is to continue. This is directly contrary to what the Prime Minister stated at Sheffield on October 17th, but, I suppose, in the interim his colleagues have pointed out to him that the maintenance of cheap bread is of the utmost importance to hundreds of thousands of poor people, chiefly women, who have to live on small fixed incomes which the war has tended to diminish rather than to increase.

As for the National Debt, the Chancellor pointed out that provision had been made for a sinking fund of ½ per cent., which would be sufficient, one was surprised and delighted to hear, to clear it off in fifty years. But he thought the House might well desire to accelerate the rate of reduction. A grand levy on capital would not, in his opinion, be in the interests of the nation, and, if it was determined to make one, they must get some other Chancellor to do it.

A special levy on war fortunes was a different, and a much more attractive, proposition, and one which early last summer—long before the present agitation arose—he had instructed the Board of Inland Revenue to examine. The Board's recommendations would soon be available, and he invited the House to co-operate with the Government by setting up a Select Committee to examine them. At the same time, he warned them that the difficulties were immense, and that, as in the case of Mr. Lloyd George's unearned increment tax of 1909-10—to which he made humorous allusion—the "hard cases" might be so numerous as to run away with most of the proceeds. After saying that the Government had decided that there was no necessity to bring in a second Budget this year he declared that, though the burden was heavy, our shoulders were broad, and there was no occasion for panic. The spirit that won the war would carry us through the first troubled years of peace. There were loud cheers from nearly all parts of the House as he sat down after speaking just upon an hour and a half.

Sir D. Maclean was not disposed to take the Chancellor's speech at its face value. He blamed Mr. Chamberlain for his lack of foresight in framing his Budget estimates, but was glad to see that he was a little more amenable with regard to the proposal for a special levy. Sir H. Steel Maitland could not congratulate the Government on having set out on the road to the recovery of their own free will. They had been pushed into it by the force of public opinion. Mr. Adamson wished he could really believe the Government were in earnest, but he was afraid they had not inspired the country with confidence in their ability to extract the nation from its present difficulties. Mr. Churchill followed the last speaker, and the House, which had been comparatively empty, rapidly filled. The Secretary for War made out a good case so far as the Army Estimates were concerned. He recited the various items which made up the cost of the Army, but he pointed out that they were spending 500 millions this year, not in maintaining a peace Army, but in dismantling the great machine of war.

Mr. Churchill proceeded to point out that by the end of the financial year less than 300,000 white British troops, all voluntarily enlisted, would remain in the Army. Speaking on the Russian situation, he referred to the improved position of the anti-Bolshevist forces under General Denikin, who, since his advance last May, had taken 270,000 prisoners. General Denikin had been notified of a final contribution of surplus of stores of the value of 15 millions; thereafter, his Army was to be self-supporting. The subsequent debate was of little interest, and the few remaining speakers almost had the House to themselves.

At last we are to hear the truth of the sinking of the Lusitania. The Government has laid on the table of the House of Commons the confidential report of the private inquiry held to investigate the matter. There were a good many stories current at the time as to what had got the vessel to the spot where she was torpedoed. It seemed a great mystery, and none of the assumptions appeared to meet the case. One of the tales told was that the commander of the U-boat wirelessed a message to the vessel to take a certain course, which she did, thinking it an Admiralty message. Another was that the captain got no message, and took the usual course, as he did not want to run the risk of having to lie outside the Mersey Bar all night and be exposed to torpedo attack there. Whether these stories, or any of them, were wholly or partly true none but the members of the Commission and the Admiralty know, but the public will soon be as wise as they.

The Labour Party's amendment to the vote of confidence secured precedence for to-morrow by an alteration which invites the House to declare that the present national expenditure on war services is unjustifiable in view of the period which has elapsed since the signing of the armistice, and that steps should be taken at once to effect drastic economies. The amendment further calls for a levy on capital of fortunes made out of the war.

ALEXANDRA COLLEGE.

LECTURE ON THE DEVASTATED AREAS.

A lecture entitled "A Glimpse of the Devastated Areas of Northern France," illustrated by limelight views, will be given by Miss H. M. Hutton, under the auspices of the Alexandra College Guild, to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Jellicoe Hall. The chair will be taken by Lady Talbot de Malahide. Miss Hutton acted as representative of Ireland in a party of women organised by Sir Henry Brittain, M.P., to visit the war zone last spring, and the present lecture gives an account of her experiences. Members of the Guild are admitted free, and further particulars will be found in our advertising columns.

DUBLIN CORPORATION.

NEXT MONDAY'S AGENDA.

NUMEROUS INCREASES OF SALARY RECOMMENDED.

On Monday next an ordinary meeting of Dublin Corporation will be held at one o'clock to consider various matters which were held over from a former meeting, and on the same day at three o'clock there will be a special meeting to deal with reports of committees, letters, etc.

A communication will be submitted from the Lord Mayor enclosing a letter from the Provost of Trinity College, stating that the Board of the College "have agreed to cede to the Corporation a small plot of ground at the corner of Nassau street for the purpose of widening the thoroughfare, on condition that the Corporation replace the wall and railings in their new position at their own expense, and that the existing hazard at Nassau street corner be removed to a position not between Nassau street and the front gate of the College."

Mr. P. T. Daly has given notice of his intention to move:—"That this Council demands passports for Mr. James Larkin, the General Secretary of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, in order to enable him to come to his home and to his wife and children."

A letter will be read from the Board of Trade stating that "it is the intention of the Board to delegate to local committees in Ireland power to investigate, hear, and determine complaints concerning 'profiteering' by retailers, and inviting the local authority to appoint such local committee."

At the special meeting Alderman Captain M'Walter, M.D., intends moving a resolution, of which he has given notice, "warning the Irish Public Health Council that it is necessary for the cure and prevention of disease in the city that the Irish Ministry of Health should provide adequate means to enable the House of Industry Hospitals (Richmond, Hardwicke, and Whitworth) to keep the beds in those hospitals open for the sick poor of Dublin."

On the motion of Mr. Daly, the Lord Mayor will be asked to take steps to have the "Profiteering" Act put in operation.

The letters to be read include one from the Local Government Board recommending the Commissioners of Public Works to issue sums of £20,000 and £8,000 as further instalments of the loans sanctioned for the erection of dwellings on the McCaffrey estate and St. James's Walk area, respectively. A further communication from the Local Government Board conveys the Board's sanction to the borrowing by the Corporation of £64,976 for the extension of the electric lighting undertaking.

The report of the Cleansing Committee for the year ending 31st March last states that £2,109 6s. 6d. was expended on foot of sick pay during the twelve months.

The proposal to construct a promenade along the Clontarf foreshore is under the consideration of the Corporation and the Port and Docks Board, and an agreement will, it is expected, be satisfactorily arrived at shortly.

INCREASES OF SALARY.

A report of the Housing Committee will come up for consideration recommending increases of remuneration to certain officials of the Committee to compensate them for work done. The officials concerned are Messrs. E. W. Eyre, F. Tobin, C. J. McCarthy, P. E. Mathews, C.E., and Joseph Sherwin. The report states that the increased remuneration is recommended "in consideration of the greatly increased responsibilities and duties discharged during the past seven years, which continue to devolve upon the chief officials, and for which they have not so far received any payment whatever."

In the electricity supply department, the Committee propose to increase the salaries of two junior shift engineers—in the case of Mr. J. E. Collins, Pigeon House, from £130 to £156, and in the case of Mr. H. Ryan, Fleet street, from £104 to £130.

The report of the Housing Committee recommends that the salary of Mr. Joseph Sherwin be increased from £270 to £300.

The salary of Mr. J. C. Roughan, who is at present paid £250, is to be increased, according to the recommendation of the Paving Committee, to £300.

Mr. O'Beirne proposes:—"That, as the Local Government Board, having regard to the restrictions of the Treasury scale of war bonus, have declined to sanction the grant of a war bonus to the chaplains connected with Crooksling Sanatorium, it be, and is, hereby resolved that, as from the 1st January, 1919, the salary attached to the position of Catholic chaplain be increased from £100 to £140 per annum, and that the salary attached to the position of Protestant chaplain be increased from £40 to £60 per annum; and that any previous resolution of the Council to the contrary be, and they are hereby rescinded or amended."

Mr. Looney has a motion down, directing that "the members of the stationary engine drivers be paid the Committee on Production award based on the rate of wages adopted by Council, August, 1917, viz., £2 per week."

DUBLIN CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION AND THE CORPORATION.

Mr. J. H. Clark (Chairman) presided at this week's meeting of the Executive Committee of the Dublin Citizens' Association (Incorporated). In reference to the increases of wages granted by the Corporation at their meeting on Monday last, to the extent of £8,000 for the current year, and £10,712 for future financial years, in addition to the rates of 2½d. in the £ (approximate), the Secretary was directed to write to the Town Clerk that it was the intention of the Association to contest the validity of the increase pertaining to the current year at the proper time.

DUBLIN HOSPITAL SUNDAY FUND.

LETTER FROM LORD MEATH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—One of the most pressing social problems requiring immediate solution by the citizens of Dublin, and, indeed, not alone by them, but by every thinking Irishman is: How are the hospitals of Dublin to be maintained in the future? Consider the position.

1. Dublin hospitals have in the past supplied the needs of the seriously sick and suffering over nearly the whole of Ireland.

2. The purchasing power of the pound sterling has decreased from 20s. to about 10s.

3. Large numbers who formerly subscribed largely to the hospitals are now unable to do so, for well-known economic and financial reasons.

4. The classes whose financial positions have been improved by the war, and by the economic and social changes which have recently occurred, have not as a rule yet learned the lessons of the nobility of self-sacrifice. It may take many years before they do, and in the meantime the hospitals and the sick and suffering are starving.

5. All the Dublin hospitals are at present heavily in debt—in the aggregate between £70,000 and £100,000.

6. Such a state of affairs cannot continue. It means inevitable bankruptcy within a very short time.

7. Banks will, under the above circumstances, not indefinitely advance money.

8. The more impecunious hospitals, unless financial relief is quickly given them, will be compelled either to close their doors or to refuse to take in patients without payment in proportion to their means.

May I, through your columns, make a most earnest appeal to your readers to give this important matter their most serious consideration?

On Sunday, November 9th, an opportunity will be given to the people of Dublin and of Ireland to wipe off some portion of this debt of £60,000 to £70,000, and thus avert the suffering and national disgrace which are certain to occur unless money be forthcoming for the needs of the hospitals of Dublin.

Let Hospital Sunday, when collections will be made in about 315 places of worship, be the means of solving this great and terrible problem. Instead of £5,000, which was approximately the amount of last year's collection, I ask the people of Ireland to send us £50,000. I know it is a bold demand. But the truth is that we need large cheques and postal orders as well as small ones.

Will those who respond to my appeal make their cheques payable to the Treasurer of the Dublin Hospital Sunday Fund, crossed "Royal Bank of Ireland," and send them to Joseph T. Pim, Esq., 22 William street, Dublin, or direct to the Royal Bank of Ireland, Dublin, to be placed to the credit of the Dublin Hospital Sunday Fund in that bank?—Yours, etc.,

MEATH,
President of the Dublin Hospital Sunday Fund.
Kilruddery, Bray, Oct. 29th, 1919.

SOLDIER'S LUCKY "SWEEP" TICKET.

Private H. Meadows, 19 Manor road, Stoke Newington, drew Brigand in the Army "Victory" Sweepstake over the Cambridgeshire, to which the first prize of £11,178 is attached. He held the ticket jointly with a friend, with whom he halves the prize. Meadows, who was quite unmoved by his good fortune, is a ladies' costumier.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S SPEECH.

The Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times, writing to-day, says—Mr. Chamberlain's speech acted like a drug upon a great part of the House of Commons. Its effects were beginning to wear off towards the end of the evening, but for a time the Lobby was seeing everything through rose-coloured spectacles. The first phase of the reaction from this unnatural exhilaration was a feeling of bewilderment; the second a period of questioning; the third a mood of incredulity. The less experienced members of the Coalition forces began to take heed of the warnings of the more practised hands. Those who had some acquaintance with political strategy had early come to the conclusion that it was an electioneering speech. The impression has been steadily gaining ground that the present Parliament will not outlive next year. A Government which is never tired of threatening its followers with a General Election would naturally wish it to be fought on the issue and in the atmosphere of its choosing.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—The country will read with genuine astonishment the speech with which the Chancellor of the Exchequer opened the debate on the vote of confidence in the House of Commons yesterday. Its complacency was no less astounding than its utter inconsistency with his gloomy warnings in August. Of the soul of economy—as contrasted with the meaningless and wholly ineffective formulæ under which it masquerades in Government circles—the country will find not a trace in Mr. Austen Chamberlain's speech. He has still no suspicion of the prodigality which flaunts everywhere before the public eye. In his view, economy in civil administration still goes no deeper than the reduction of staff. He announces with a fine air that the Treasury are considering measures for strengthening the hands of the finance officers in the various departments—a measure of elementary necessity months ago. And he still thinks it far more important to impress on Parliament the danger of incurring additional expenditure than to probe the existing administrative methods for the leaks through which public money is pouring to waste. Parliament will forfeit utterly the confidence of the country if it allows itself to be diverted from the pursuit of genuine economy by time-worn devices of oratorical craftsmanship. The House of Commons should insist on answers to the questions which the Government apologists showed such diligence in evading yesterday. What are the drastic "measures for securing economy" which the Government suggest in their own motion? How far is economy secure during the next six months? What guarantee is there that when the next Budget is introduced in the spring the same tale of disappointed hopes will not have to be told? These are pertinent and substantial questions. Answers to them, and satisfactory answers, are the only safeguard of immediate economy.

AN OFFER TO SINN FEIN.

Commenting on Sir Horace Plunkett's speech at the National Liberal Club yesterday, The Times regards his statements that the murders, which he condemns, have not been "as many as might have been expected," as highly reprehensible, and as a serious lapse of judgment on the part of an otherwise earnest and most responsible speaker. We, for our part, continues The Times, have not attributed to the official Sinn Fein Party direct responsibility for procuring them, though we held that party gravely to blame for failure to condemn publicly actions of which we should regret to think that any large section of its supporters approve. The fact that the majority of Irishmen have given support to the Sinn Fein policy is, in our view, due rather to reaction against the methods of a political caucus, which for years held undisputed sway in Ireland, than to a conversion of the Irish masses to revolutionary ideals and to violent means of realising them. It is because we have not been misled by the words and actions of some who are prominently associated with the Sinn Fein movement into condemning at least half the Irish people as murderers and anarchists that we commend the suggestion made in a letter from Lord Southborough which we publish to-day. While we cannot approve either of the wild idealism which passes for policy on Sinn Fein platforms or of the foolish appeals to hatred of Great Britain by which the Irish people are goaded to support it, we recognise that the new doctrine of self-reliance, which has taken strong hold upon the youth of Ireland, is no momentary political cry. Whatever its antecedents, whatever the events that have hitherto degraded its reputation, it is neither possible nor desirable that a party which—because certain elements of its policy make a strong popular appeal—enjoys so large a measure of Irish support should remain perpetually "in Coventry." Lord Southborough suggests himself as an intermediary between Young Ireland and this country, and there is no one who could more ably, and would more impartially, play such a part. We hope that his offer thus frankly and honestly made will be considered, and that the outcome may be a discussion from which all might learn, and from which we believe nothing save benefit, both for Ireland and for Great Britain, could result.

LORD SOUTHBOROUGH'S OFFER.

Lord Southborough, commenting in a letter to The Times to-day on Mr. Lysaght's letter of yesterday, writes:—The complete severance between Sinn Fein (with its large Parliamentary representation now quite wasted) and His Majesty's Government is one of the most serious features in the sad condition of Irish politics. There is no exchange of thought, and no opportunity for testing by contact the possibilities of contract. Mr. Lysaght knows quite well that I take no part in politics, and that I have no truck with His Majesty's Government. He has referred in kindly terms to my "detached impartiality." If he and his friends at any time think that a meeting on what is possible and what is impossible, on what will "do" and what "won't do" is worth trying, a small unofficial conference could be arranged. A change is coming, but whether it will be for the policy of concession or repression remains to be seen. In either event Sinn Fein should be ready with a practical and statesmanlike scheme. One section of the Nationalist representatives in the Convention asked for more than they were prepared to accept, because they thought that His Majesty's Government would play poker with them. That is not business, and it brought disaster on the Convention. Surely, the great thing is to have an honest, practical, and conservative policy. This was the policy in Canada and South Africa. It is the policy of the great and influential Moderate Party in India. What a pity it is that the Sinn Fein members absent themselves from Parliament.

NEW IRISH BOOKS.

The Times reviews, in its Literary Supplement to-day, Professor Eoin MacNeill's new book, "Phases of Irish History" (Dublin: Gill, 12s. 6d. net), which deals, as the title indicates, with isolated episodes or periods of early Irish history. Professor MacNeill, says The Times, commands a clear and attractive style, and has among contemporary writers a probably unrivalled knowledge of the ancient sources. Unfortunately, the book does not inspire us with any great confidence that the author will justify his reputation as a scholar. But Mr. MacNeill's book, though it does not show either the knowledge or the judgment needed for history of a high order, is by no means without value and interest. A chapter on the Irish Kingdom in Scotland is good and informative, but one would have wished for a fuller treatment of the causes which led to the striking success of the Gaelic colonists of that country as compared with the failure of their kindred in Ireland. A chapter on the pre-Celtic inhabitants of Ireland also contains much that is new and interesting. His attack on the commonly accepted view of the fatal transaction known as "the cursing of Tara" will attract attention, but it is evidently intended to relieve the Church of the odium of the deed, and is not convincing.

In a review of the "Complete Poems of Francis Ledwidge" (Herbert Jenkins, 7s. 6d. net), The Times says:—Ledwidge's "easy fluency of shapely lines" was a danger, as well as an aptitude and a grace. It is true that he is "the poet of the blackbird," that his "small circle of readers" will turn to his mildness, sweetness, and serenity "as to a very still lake—on a very cloudless evening." But that circle must not be disappointed to discover that his limpidity and naturalness are often blurred with the derivative, that his taste is uncertain, that he more often "makes things up" about what delights him than makes it again—that his imagination, in other words, is less active than his fancy. Complete poems, unflawed by inequalities of tone and workmanship, are, therefore, rare.

THE FIGHT FOR PETROGRAD.

STRONG BOLSHEVIST RESISTANCE.

REPORTED EVACUATION OF GATCHINA.

According to a Press Association war telegram received yesterday, the Esthonian Commander, General Laidoner, states that the Bolsheviks have obtained big reinforcements from the Finnish frontier and the Archangel front, and that it is probable that the fight for Petrograd will be a long one. The Bolshevik troops are well equipped and trained. General Laidoner also said that the Esthonian Army would be thrown into the fight as soon as General Judenitch, Admiral Koltchak, or General Denikin recognises the Esthonian Republic.

REPORTED WITHDRAWAL FROM GATCHINA.

A Stockholm telegram on Wednesday says—The Finnish Press Agency states that a rumour was current in Reval yesterday that General Judenitch's troops had evacuated Gatchina, and that his Staff had already been transferred to Yamburg.

FIERCE ENEMY ATTACKS.

Reuter's Agency learns from a Russian source that the following telegrams have been received in London, dated Helsingfors, Tuesday:—On Sunday evening, under enemy pressure, Judenitch's Army abandoned Ropsha. On Monday evening attacks on the enemy were repulsed. Fighting continues along the whole front. In the Petrograd direction Judenitch occupies the line of Vyritsa-Vladimirskaya-Skovorino-Taitsky. On the Krasnoya Selo side attacks of the enemy have been repulsed.

EXTRAORDINARY DOCUMENTS

PRODUCED AT GALWAY COURTMARTIAL.

Three remarkable documents, two of which were written in code, were read at a courtmartial held at Renmore Depôt, Galway, yesterday, into a charge of being in possession of seditious documents, preferred under the Defence of the Realm Act against John Farrell, Wolf Tone terrace, Athlone.

The police testified to finding the documents in a tin box in the house of the accused man's father.

Captain Gover deposed that he decoded two of them as follows:—Brigade instructions, Headquarters, Moate.—All unarmed men are to fall back on Moate, bringing with them all the implements possible—spades, shovels, picks, and everything of use. Fourth Battalion will act as already instructed. All police barracks are to be raided, main roads and railways made use of in each battalion district. All armed men must be mounted on bicycles."

The second document in code read:—"All police barracks, except those situated in towns, such as Athlone, where there is an overwhelming superiority, must be rushed simultaneously, and no quarter given to the police. Let the officers of A Company, therefore, prepare plans to deal effectively with the police barracks in the districts in which they are to operate. I have secured twenty detonators and fuses; get all the cans possible, say six inch by four inch, and mix bits of scrap iron, half-inch pieces, with cement. See to this instantly."

The third document, which was not coded, read:—"Ask Commandants if they have found all places in the district where arms are kept, and all possible information re same for raiding purposes, to hold account of same until I call; Brigade Council Commandants to get the names of each R.I.C. station, number of police in each, and place where they get provisions. Commandants to get number of soldiers in district where they are situated, to what particular branch of the service they belong, what aerodromes, if any, and whether for constructing or training purposes; where artillery are situated; also mention the number of guns. It is necessary to ascertain, as far as possible, where provisions come from."

The accused, a young man of about 24, declined to recognise the right of the court to try him, but cross-examined the police witnesses, one of whom, Sergeant McGlynn, stated that he could not say if the box in which the documents were found, or the bedroom, belonged to the accused.

The accused submitted that the police had not proved that the documents belonged to him.

He was found not guilty and was discharged.

TWO MORE AQUITTALS.

Joseph Rourke and Stephen Wyse, Coxtown, Ardrahan, were acquitted, the former on a charge of having been in possession of ammunition, and the latter for having a revolver in his possession. The ammunition and revolver were found in a tin box in Wyse's house, together with a membership card of the Irish Volunteers, containing Rourke's name.

Captain Maguire, of the Connaught Rangers, a member of the Court, asked a witness whether the Volunteers were not all one in 1915, and whether many of them subsequent to that date did not join the British Army?

The President (Major Meredith)—That does not affect the case.

GELIGNITE AND AMMUNITION IN CORK.

SURPRISING POLICE DISCOVERY.

TWO ARRESTS.

Yesterday morning the police went to a tenement house in Thomas street, Cork, to arrest a youth named Mark Holland for the larceny of clothing, and proceeded to search apartments on the second floor, in which he resided with his mother, for some of the property, which the lad admitted having stolen. Under a bundle of rags in the pantry they found between 30 and 40 sticks of gelignite, sufficient to blow up the entire district, and 60lbs. of Service ammunition, both wrapped in canvas. They removed the stuff to the police headquarters, and took Mrs. Holland into custody. In consequence of information that they received, they subsequently arrested a Sinn Fein Volunteer, named Anthony Nunan, a clerk, at his residence, 17 Thomas street, and both accused will, it is expected, be handed over to the military authorities.

The scene of the discovery is one hundred yards from the house in Grattan street, used as a Sinn Fein arsenal, which was blown up some months since, with loss of life, and under the floor of which the Constabulary later found nearly a hundred bombs in various stages of manufacture. The discovery is regarded as one of the utmost importance by the police authorities.

IRISH TRANSPORT OFFICE APPOINTMENT.

Mr. Morris, in a question to the Minister of Transport, asked whether the Secretary of the Irish Transport Office has recommended an official for promotion over 55 officers of senior service in the Irish Railway Clearing House; whether he will have the inquiry made into the circumstances before this recommendation is ratified by the Irish Clearing House Committee; and whether, in order to prevent similar practices in future, the Secretary will be prohibited from making any appointment to that department, or revising the staff salaries.

Sir E. Geddes writes:—Promotions in the Irish Clearing House are purely a matter for that body, and the Director-General of Transport (Ireland), to whom I presume my hon. friend refers, has not made, and does not propose to make, any recommendations on the subject.

LARKIN'S PASSPORT.

At a meeting of the Dublin Trades Council on Monday night, the question of a general stoppage of work in Dublin for 24 hours, or longer, as a protest against the action of the Government in refusing to grant passports to Mr. James Larkin for his return to Ireland, was under consideration. A number of the unions represented were in favour of the proposal, but as some delegates had not been able to ascertain the views of their societies on the matter it was decided to adjourn the further consideration of the proposal to a meeting to be held next Tuesday night.

In the House of Commons yesterday, the Constabulary and Police (Ireland) Bill, Financial Resolution, passed the Report stage.

Sir Ronald Graham, the new British Minister to the Netherlands, has arrived at The Hague.

OUR FINANCIAL POSITION.

THE CHANCELLOR'S HOPEFUL REVIEW.

REDUCTIONS IN SERVICES AND DEPARTMENTS.

NO NEW TAXATION AND NO SECOND BUDGET.

NO LEVY ON CAPITAL.

TAX ON WAR PROFITS TO BE CONSIDERED.

NEW CABINET FINANCE COMMITTEE.

RAILWAY SUBSIDY TO CEASE BUT BREAD SUBSIDY TO BE MAINTAINED.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Austen Chamberlain (Chancellor of the Exchequer) was received with cheers on rising to make his statement on the financial situation, and to move:—

> "That this House, realising the serious effects upon the trade and industry of the nation of the enormous financial burdens resulting from the war, promises its hearty support to the Government in all reasonable proposals, however drastic, for the reduction of expenditure and the diminution of debt."

He said that he took that opportunity of reviewing again the financial situation of the country. That situation was a grave one, and he asked the House to consider it gravely. There was every reason for caution, for economy, and wise husbanding of our resources. There was no reason for panic. (Cheers.) Some people mistook hysteria for strength. He hoped that the House of Commons would not make that mistake. The situation was one for anxious thought and wise measures, for a policy steadily pursued, not merely through the coming months, but through the coming years. For a satisfying settlement, close cooperation and a complete understanding between the members of the House of Commons was necessary, and the Government not only welcomed the desire of members to be informed as to the financial situation, but invited them to help them. The second observation I wish to make, continued Mr. Chamberlain, is this—I believe in many matters that the situation disclosed in the papers is worse than the public had anticipated. If that is so, it is because the public have paid insufficient attention to the warnings which I have addressed to them.

POSITION BETTER THAN IN AUGUST.

I may say at once that, as far as I am concerned, the position, though less good than I had anticipated, is distinctly better than I feared when I spoke in August. It is better in four ways. In the first place, the taxed revenue is coming in extraordinarily well. Every item of Inland Revenue, except the Excess Profits Duty, equals, or exceeds, the Budget estimate. The Excess Profits Duty is not unlikely to yield, in the current year, less than I had anticipated by the sum of twenty millions. That is not money lost, but in suspense, and will come in during the coming year; but if I continue to see signs of delays in payment which are not justifiable, I must consider whether I should not ask the House to impose interest on the outstanding obligations. (Cheers.) Dealing next with the Income Tax yield, he said that it was not likely to produce an excess over the Budget estimates. He gave away a good deal of that revenue in the course of the Budget, and an excess could not be looked forward to. Customs and Excise were expected to yield 38½ millions more than the Budget, 15½ of that being on account of the increased barrelage of beer. Tea was expected to yield four millions more than the Budget estimates, and tobacco 14 millions more—a total of 18 millions. He called attention to this because it spoke eloquently of the condition and spending power of our people—(cheers)—a factor of prime importance. There was another tax which had always been recognised as a good test of the activity of business—namely, the Stamp Duty. Here the estimate was increased by four millions. He was justified, therefore, in saying that these were encouraging features.

NEW TAXATION UNNECESSARY.

A second way in which the position was more durable was that the reductions of expenditure which he estimated were taking place much earlier than he thought possible. Lastly, on the eve of their adjournment, in August, he felt bound to warn the House that, according to the position then presented, it was unlikely that they would be able to balance the incomings and outgoings next year without new taxation. He no longer thought that new taxation would be required for that purpose. (Cheers.)

THE BUDGET INCREASE.

Turning to the current year, the Budget had been increased by 223½ millions to a total of 473½ millions, largely due to the deferment of receipts to next year. He wished to utter a word of caution, however. They had been able to reduce the number of the Army of Occupation largely below what was contemplated, and, although 80 millions was the cost this year, he did not say that that sum would come into next year. Similarly, he said, the figure for the trading capital of the Food Controller does not necessarily remain unchanged from year to year, and very likely may not be so large next year as it was at the beginning of this year.

ACTUAL INCREASE OF EXPENDITURE.

When allowance is made for the postponement of receipts, the actual increase of expenditure over the Budget estimate is £133,000,000. Of this, war pensions, war bonuses, and extra expenditure due to strikes amounted to £44,000,000, loans to Allies £32,000,000, and increased pay to the Army, Navy, and Air Force £21,500,000, making altogether £97,500,000, out of the actual increase of £133,000,000. The excess in the loans to the Allies is due to the claims of the British Government departments on the Allies for past services, rendered but not paid, before the 31st March of the current year, being much larger than was anticipated. I ask the House, I ask the critics outside—(cheers)—of these items, which do you challenge? (Cheers.)—Can they turn to any of them, and say that they challenged it at the time? (Cheers.)

THE CONDITIONS RECALLED.

Let us understand what we are talking about. In considering the expenditure for the year, I ask the House to remember the conditions. The usual form that criticism takes is that it is nearly a year since the armistice was signed. Is that fair? Is it helpful? Does it aid in the discovery of truth? Months after the armistice was signed, on the very eve of the signature of peace, who knew whether peace was to be signed or not? It was not a question of demobilisation. It was a question whether in forty-eight hours we should march further into Germany. There is no single feature in the situation of the world which places a heavier strain upon us in men and money at the present time than the fact that peace with Turkey is not signed, and that there is not a settlement throughout the East. We are the first to regret it. But it is not a matter for which we are responsible. (Cheers.) It is not a fault which it is within our power to remedy. A settlement of peace with Turkey is an international affair, and everyone knows that it is delayed pending the decision of America as to whether she would undertake a part in bearing the white man's burden, and the execution of the tutelage of the League of Nations. We have had, not unconnected with the fact that no settlement has been arrived at with Turkey, unrest in Egypt, a war in Afghanistan, and, turning to affairs at home, there is no need to remind the House that the police strike was one of many strikes which had a disturbing effect upon the recovery of trade and commerce, and retarded the production of wealth and the resumption of a normal situation. I ask the House to consider what we have accomplished, and to bear in mind the conditions under which we work.

THE QUESTION OF CONTROL.

Proceeding, Mr. Chamberlain said that the House would desire to know what had been done to secure proper control over finance and expenditure. First, as to organisation. During the last fifteen years or so, the Treasury had been under-staffed, and, owing to circumstances, ill-organised. For years past it had had no single permanent head, and had only worked as well as it had done because of the admirable relations which existed. He had had to reorganise the Treasury under a single permanent head, and Sir Warren Fisher had been appointed to that post. Under him there were three Controllers—one for Establishment, one the Director of Finance, and one the Controller of Administrative Services. He proposed still further to enlarge the Treasury staff, because it was necessary. There would be periodical meetings of the financial advisers of other departments.

A CABINET FINANCE COMMITTEE.

There would be a Cabinet Finance Committee, which would be of great financial assistance to Mr. Chancellor.

That Committee would consist of the Prime Minister, the Lord Privy Seal (Mr. Bonar Law), Lord Milner, the President of the Board of Trade, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

A LARGER REVENUE STAFF.

If you will cut down the staff, continued Mr. Chamberlain, you must cut down the Services. On the other hand, if you insist on retaining an enlarging service, you must give Ministers the necessary staff. With regard to the revenue department, I will not be responsible for a reduction of the trained staff. I need more. I am losing revenue for want of trained staff, and it would be penny wise and pound foolish to grudge an efficient and sufficient staff, who would pay for themselves many times over in the revenue which they would save from going to waste. The reductions in the month of September amounted to 8,000 men. Further reductions have been already promised. We have not come to an end by any means, but if the whole of the organisations created for the war were swept away, and the staffs in the pre-war departments brought back to their pre-war dimensions, the saving in money would not be more than 22 millions. Nobody pretends that these things could be done.

SUBSIDIES.

As to the question of subsidies, they are the second large item of expenditure of a temporary and extraordinary character. The position in regard to the coal subsidy is necessarily dependent on the output of coal, but assuming that that continues satisfactory, then the coal subsidy is at an end.

In regard to the railways, we have taken steps to bring before the Consultative Committee the necessity for a revision of rates on a scale to make the railways self-supporting. (Cheers.)

The Postmaster-General is making a careful inquiry into Post Office services, which are rendered at a loss, and he will report to the Finance Committee of the Cabinet as to what steps it may be necessary to take in order to relieve us from the burden in respect of these charges. Then there is the out-of-work donation. With regard to discharged soldiers, their right exists for one year after demobilisation. I have heard nobody question the wisdom of that provision. (Cheers.) But the ordinary civil out-of-work donation comes to an end on November 21st. (Cheers.) With regard to the bread subsidy, the Government do not feel that it would be wise or practicable to terminate it at once, but we look forward to its termination as early as circumstances may permit.

ARMY REDUCTIONS.

As to the fighting services, as a result of the deliberations of the Finance Committee, acting in collaboration with, and on the initiative of, Mr. Churchill, the Forces at home, including troops preparing for overseas, will be reduced between September 1st and November 15th, by 217,000 men. The Army of the Rhine, between the same dates, will be reduced by 116,000 men, making a total reduction of 157,000 men since July 26th. The Army of France and Flanders, between September 1st and November 15th, will be reduced by 130,000 men; the Army of the Black Sea by 6,000; the Army of Egypt and Palestine by 22,000, and the Army of Mesopotamia by 7,000. These reductions amount almost exactly to half a million British troops. In the same period the Indian troops will be reduced by 14,000, and there will be a substantial reduction in Chinese labour and Indian camp followers. The General Officer Commanding in Mesopotamia has agreed to a reduction by December 1st of 94,000 in the Forces there, inclusive of British and Indian troops; and, then, further reductions will be made, amounting to 76,000 British troops between November 15th and May 1st next, by which date it is hoped that all British troops will have left France and Flanders.

THE NAVAL REDUCTIONS.

Turning to the Navy, five battleships of the Home Fleet have gone from special complement to reserve, and two battle cruisers have gone from full complement. Drastic reductions are being made with smaller craft, and very large reductions are being made by way of cancelling ships under construction, and the savings, compared with the Admiralty plans of last July, are estimated at from £16,000,000 to £21,000,000. As regards the personnel, by December 31, all except the permanent Royal Navy will be demobilised, and the Admiralty expect that the permanent Royal Navy will be reduced from its present number of 157,000 to 146,000 by the end of the year, quite apart from any particular and extraordinary measures which we may take.

LEADING THE WAY IN DISARMAMENT.

We are leading the way in disarmament among the nations of the world. (Hear, hear.)

The cry is for further reductions, but I should be surprised if, within six months, the same critics who are blaming us for not making further reductions will not blame us for reducing too fast or too far. The results of the measures just taken are immediate, as shown in the improved prospects of the present year over what they were in August, and they are still greater in securing further reductions in the year to come. (Hear, hear.)

THE NORMAL YEAR IS NOT YET.

As to the normal year, that is quite definitely not next year. It is the standard by which the House can measure what it was doing. The House can understand that every time it sanctions further expenditure it renders it necessary to impose additional taxation. The figures are the figures given to me by my advisers. The House knows with what care these Inland Revenue Estimates are prepared, and with what accuracy they are generally realised. I have not added to any estimate, or withdrawn any expenditure, except to refuse to take credit for a doubtful increase of revenue.

NEXT YEAR'S POSITION.

Continuing he said that he was not going to estimate what the expenditure or the receipts would be for the next financial year. It was too far off for him to frame the calculation that the House would expect. But according to the best calculations of his advisers, additional taxation would not be necessary, unless the House desired one of two things—more money for old age pensions, or a more rapid reduction of the National Debt.

Apart from that, he anticipated that next year, after providing for the aftermath of normal war expenditure in so far as it was not met by revenue out of assets to be realised, there would be, at the end of the year, a substantial balance to go in the reduction of debt.

The floating debt on March 31 last was £1,412,000,000, and it had been reduced by 126 millions. Our debts to the United States and the Canadian Government would approximately be unchanged at the end of the year. The external debt in the hands of the public, amounting to £306,000,000, had been reduced to £273,000,000. By March 31, 1920, the figures would show a still further reduction.

NO NEW BUDGET.

In view of that review, the House would not expect him to bring in a new Budget. Two Budgets in a year would really be injurious to the public interests, and he submitted that there was no such financial crisis or mergency as to require a new Budget or new taxation.

CAPITAL LEVY CONDEMNED.

The House might content itself with a-half per cent. reduction of our debt. To increase the percentage, two large schemes had formed the subject of discussion. The first was a general capital levy. He considered that before he took office, and he came to the conclusion then, and adhered to it now, that such a levy would not be in the interests of the nation—(cheers)—and it would have a deterrent influence upon the influxion of foreign capital to the country. If the House ever desired a capital levy, they could not expect him to carry it out—(cheers)—and he believed he was speaking the general mind of the Government. (Cheers.)

THE PROBLEM OF WAR PROFITS.

The question of a special levy upon the wealth accumulated by reason of the war stood upon an entirely different footing, and, in the abstract, he would not dispute its equity. But the difficulties of its collection would be enormous, and they would have to determine whether those difficulties would not outweigh the advantage they might hope to secure. (Cheers.) He invited those who advocated it to turn their minds to solving those difficulties. Proceeding, Mr. Chamberlain said—We invite the co-operation of this House. Before any bill is introduced, before any decision is come to by the Government as to whether such a proposal should be made or not, the proposals and report of the Inland Revenue should be laid before, and examined by, a Select Committee of this House, and we should have the benefit of their advice, and of the public discussion to which their deliberations would give rise. I hope that the Inland Revenue will be in the position to supply the papers to such a Committee before long, and as soon as they are in a position to do so I will move for the establishment of a Committee of the House of Commons.

SUMMARY OF CONCLUSIONS.

Let me summarise my conclusions. The basis of all revenue returns, and of estimates of taxes, is the condition of industry and trade. (Hear, hear.) The Government, as I have endeavoured to show, have been doing, and are continuing to do, their share in financial reconstruction. In order that our efforts may be fruitful, much more is needed than any Government can do. There must be an increase in production. That is a vital necessity to national prosperity and national credit. On the position, as now shown, no additional taxation will be required to balance future Budgets, and no fresh borrowing will be required on revenue account after this year. On the contrary, next year substantial supplies should be available for the reduction of debt. Parliament may desire a quicker reduction of the debt than we may have provided for, and it is certainly most desirable. With that view, we invite the House to explore the position with us, in anticipation of any decision on the subject of a levy on war profits. Our burdens are heavy, but our shoulders are broad. There is every occasion for caution; there is no excuse for panic. Our position is sound; we have borne throughout the years of war a financial burden unequalled by any other country. (Cheers.) Our resources, and the spirit of the people, have responded to our necessities. The same resources, and the same spirit, are equal to carrying us successfully through the first difficult and troubled years of peace, as they were to carrying us through the fierce fighting of the war, to the victory which succeeded. (Cheers.) Mr. Chamberlain concluded by moving the resolution, which we print above.

THE INDEMNITY FROM GERMANY.

Colonel Sir Frederick Hall asked the right hon. gentleman if he could give the House any idea as to what amount they might expect within the next year, or two years, as an indemnity from Germany.

Mr. Chamberlain replied that the amount would be decided by an Inter-Allied body, which would sit in Paris. That was a body to which he could not give directions, and which had not yet been constituted.

SIR DONALD MACLEAN.

Sir Donald Maclean said that the Chancellor had displayed so much cheery optimism that it would really seem that all was for the best in the best of all financial worlds, but they were still expropriating 1½ millions per day out of private property, and adding it to the National Debt. The Government knew there would be all these increased charges, and the Chancellor ought to have imposed heavier taxation in his Budget. There was no justification for his gross miscalculations. The Government seemed to have gambled on the chances of peace, and the chances went against them. The Chancellor was fond of talking of a normal year, but there would be no normal year for years to come. He was quite certain that the present Government would never see a normal year. There must be immediate retrenchment. Let the Government put aside all legislation, except that which was vitally necessary, submit revised estimates for all the great spending departments, and let the House deal with them before Christmas. That would enable them to re-establish their control over expenditure. Such estimates should be dealt with in the House, and not by a Committee upstairs. With regard to the question of a capital levy, that was not a matter to be lightly dismissed, though he was conscious of the grave objections to it. He suggested that the inquiry into a tax on war-time accretions of capital might very wisely be extended into an inquiry as to the expediency of a levy upon capital. (Hear, hear.) He did not believe that the country was bankrupt. If they realised that the House and the Government were co-operating in this matter, confidence would be restored at home and abroad.

SIR A STEEL MAITLAND.

Sir A. Steel Maitland expressed cordial concurrence with the suggestion of the Chancellor, that a Committee should be set up to consider the desirability of taxing war profits. He approved the principle of the proposal, though he realised the difficulties in the way of carrying it out. While he gladly supported the motion of the Chancellor, he did not think that it went far enough. That was why he and other members had put down an amendment requiring that expenditure for the remainder of the financial year shall not exceed a fixed limit, to be framed forthwith by the Treasury, and approved by the House, which limit shall not be exceeded, except by express consent of the House. They wanted some proof that the Government had become permanently converted to economy. The Chancellor had administered to the House a dose of soothing syrup, but there ought to be some real inquiry into high prices and our supplies of raw materials from abroad.

MR. ADAMSON.

Mr. Adamson said that he considered that the Chancellor's statement was of a very disappointing character. It certainly fell short of his idea of what was required. The manner in which the Government had dealt with the financial position did not inspire any confidence in their being able to extricate the nation from its present financial difficulties. The Labour Party some months ago wrote to the Prime Minister suggesting the desirability of setting up a Royal Commission to inquire into the financial position of the country and into international financial relations. The Cabinet, however, would not entertain the proposal. He did not agree with those who suggested repudiation of the National Debt as a solution. (Laughter and cheers.) Neither did he think that the present system of extraordinary taxation would suffice. The working classes would not assent to bear such a burden for an indefinite time. He favoured rigid economy, reasonable taxation, complete expropriation of all war profits, and a levy on capital. The Labour Party believed that the country would have to face a capital levy before very long.

MR. CHURCHILL.

Mr. Churchill said that the decisive impression produced on the House by the massive and masterly speech of the Chancellor left him in some doubt as to whether it would be necessary for him to speak, but he thought that it would be convenient for members to know the portion of the Government case which related to the War Office. Contrary to the general impression, there were very few factors in his original forecast of February which had been falsified by the course of events, but certain new things had happened which, on paper, made a considerable apparent change. He estimated that we should get 70 millions from Germany in payment of expenses of the Army of Occupation. As the Army on the Rhine had been diminished, that charge had been reduced to 48 millions, and the International Commission dealing with indemnities considered that it was impossible to secure any but one million of that in the present financial year. The 48 millions would, however, issue to the advantage of the State next year. Then the Dominions owed 50 millions for maintenance of troops in the field. He budgeted in February in payment of 35 millions, but owing to financial difficulties in Australia we should only receive 15 millions. The other 20 millions was a good debt. Therefore, of the 118 millions which constituted the offending of the War

ADDITIONAL TAXATION.

DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

LORD BUCKMASTER'S MOTION REJECTED.

In the House of Lords yesterday, the debate was resumed on the motion moved by Lord Buckmaster last week, calling for the immediate imposition of fresh taxation.

Lord Emmott said that two points demanded immediate attention. In the first place, it was absolutely essential, if we were to pay our way as a nation, that our exports should be increased. The country was perilously near its extreme taxable capacity. With regard to the industrial unrest, he feared that unless things settled this country's number would be up industrially.

Lord Faringdon thought that we were justified in believing that the worst was past.

Lord Beaverbrook said that if we were to face the situation as it existed, we must make up our minds at once that additional taxation was necessary, in order that revenue might bear some relation to our expenditure. A capital levy was not impossible.

Viscount Midleton urged the Government to release the unemployment beneficiare, and to use their power for the reduction of prices.

The Marquis of Crewe expressed regret that further reductions could not be made in the Army expenditure. There were very serious objections to a levy on capital. The most promising method was a tax on war fortunes.

EARL OF READING'S OPTIMISM.

The Earl of Reading deprecated suggestions that this country was on the verge of bankruptcy. The impression had gone forth that we were in a much more exhausted condition than he believed was really the case. (Hear, hear.) He did not think a case had been made out for the resolution. The true test of the prosperity of a country was not so much the amount received from the taxation as it was the attempts that were made to increase the resources and stimulate production in the country. They must do nothing that would dispirit enterprise.

On a division the motion was rejected by 52 votes to 13.

The House rose at 7.45.

DERRY AND RAPHOE SYNOD.

WHERE IRELAND'S TRUE PROSPERITY LIES.

The meeting of the Diocesan Synod of Derry and Raphoe was held in Londonderry yesterday, when the Right Rev. J. Irvine Peacocke, D.D., Bishop of the United Diocese, presided over an unusually large gathering of both orders.

The President intimated that there was a vacancy in the Secretaryship of the Diocese of Raphoe, owing to the transfer of Canon Holmes to the Diocese of Derry. The Ven. H. St. G. M'Clenaghan, Archdeacon of Raphoe, was unanimously appointed to the vacancy.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, who was cordially received, said that, although the war was over, neither at home nor abroad have the immediate results of peace been as great or as happy as they fondly hoped. Everywhere a spirit of unrest was awake. The cataclysm through which they had passed had given birth to a whole flood of new ideas, among which men were half-blindly groping. It had released or created ideals which were often dimly seen in distorted form, and to which the roads of rightful attainment were not yet clearly visible, and unhappily the selfishness which is ingrained in human nature had again asserted itself, and was disfiguring movements which otherwise were in the right direction. He welcomed the efforts that are being put forth to draw the different Churches nearer to one another. It was their unhappy division that had been the cause of much of the weakness of Christianity's witness in the past; and, though these efforts were beset with many very great difficulties in the way, he was not without hopes that he might live to see at least a League of Churches warring with a united front, though, perhaps, not exactly the same front, against the common foe. "Our own unfortunate country," the President continued, "is in a sorrowful condition. Prosperous materially I suppose to an extent far beyond what it has ever been before, murder and outrage defile it, and very generally the people seem content to have it so. Mawkish sentiment and political cowardice threaten to mortgage its real interest, and to enslave a large section of the community, and that the section which has always shown itself loyal and hard-working. Our sympathy and admiration go out in no measured degree to the members of the police force in the difficult and dangerous task which they are so faithfully carrying on. (Applause.) And we ourselves—I speak I know for the great body of this Synod—are only more convinced that in the Union with Great Britain, under a government justly, firmly, and kindly administered, the true welfare of Ireland was to be found and kept. (Applause.) Turning to the more immediate affairs of the diocese, the President mentioned with regret the names of those who had passed away since the last Synod.

THE REMUNERATION OF THE CLERGY.

Speaking of the present remuneration of the clergy, the Bishop said that no one could deny for a moment that it was all wrong. In every other line of life incomes and wages had enormously increased—doubled, trebled in many cases. The clergyman did not want to "profiteer." He merely wanted to be able to pay his way and live decently in the place in which he was set. He could not do it under present arrangements. So far as concerned their own diocese, £2,651 would be distributed this year, if the Synod passed the Council's recommendations. The bulk of that sum, £1,718, came from diocesan funds, and he did not believe that any other diocese in Ireland had been able to allocate so much for this purpose. In addition to this, the Laymen's Fund for the augmentation of clerical incomes would provide, he understood, about £800. Some parishes had also made special provision for their own clergy. He desired to press on the laymen of the Synod, not so much the need, but the duty of seeing that this augmentation fund was adequately supported. It was not charity; the clergy had a right to be paid a fair wage, at the lowest a living wage. The Church should not be content with giving a minimum. Besides their local augmentation fund, there was also the Central Emergency Fund, which the General Synod had started to meet the worst cases of poverty, and he hoped that this, too, would be generously supported.

The Archdeacon of Derry, the Archdeacon of Raphoe, Rev. Canon R. G. S. King, Captain William Knox, D.L., and Mr. Cecil V. Stoney, D.L., Hon. Secretaries to the Diocesan Synod, were unanimously elected members of the Diocesan Council for the ensuing year.

The motion was adopted.

OBITUARY.

MR. ARTHUR W. MAHAFFY, O.B.E.

We much regret to announce the death at Dominica, British West Indies, of Mr. Arthur William Mahaffy, O.B.E., His Majesty's Administrator of Dominica, and elder son of the late Rev. Sir John Pentland Mahaffy, G.C.V.O., D.D., Provost of Trinity College, Dublin. The news is official, but no details of Mr. Mahaffy's illness have been supplied. He was in good health during his last visit to Ireland in April, at the time of his distinguished father's death.

Mr. Arthur Mahaffy was born in 1869, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and at Oxford University. In both he won fame as an oarsman, and he was a member of one of the greatest "fours" which Magdalen College ever sent to the head of the river. He received a commission in the Munster Fusiliers, but not long afterwards his desire for foreign travel sent him to the South Seas. After some interesting adventures, he was appointed Governor of the largest of the British Solomon Islands at a time when cannibalism still prevailed there. For four years Mr. Mahaffy, supported only by 40 Sikhs, fulfilled this dangerous duty with remarkable success. There, among a savage people, he gave such proof of his qualities as a ruler that he was appointed, on the next vacancy, as Colonial Secretary of the Fiji Islands. He worked for some years at Suva until his promotion to be Administrator of Dominica, one of the most important posts in the British West Indies. He was married, and leaves a son, who is now at school in England.

Mr. Mahaffy's death is a loss to the Empire, and a still greater loss to his relatives and friends. His personality was at once strong and charming. He was a good scholar and an excellent man of affairs, and he inherited a large measure of the late Provost's wit and powers of conversation. He wrote a little—not nearly enough—for the more high-class magazines, and during his stay in the Solomon Islands he was a keen student of the customs and traditions of the people. Some time ago he received the Government's thanks for his services during the tornado which ravaged the island of Dominica.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

THE ECONOMY DEBATE.

The Daily Chronicle, commenting on the economy debate in the Commons, says:—To manufacture a political scare out of the real and admitted need for post-war economy is not merely unjust, but unpatriotic. No one disputes that war breeds wasteful habits. The two most hopeful ways of getting rid of them are—to reduce and demobolise our fighting establishments, and to improve Treasury control.

The debate now proceeding in Parliament is, in fact, says the Morning Post, a battle between the House and the Government for the control of the public finances. On the one side, the Government asks the House for support in its financial policy, at the same time defining that policy as one of drastic reduction of expenditure and diminution of debt. The House, on the other side, does not quite trust the Government to fulfil its promise. Mr. Austen Chamberlain was virtuous as to a levy on capital, but gave away at least part of his position by consenting to an inquiry on the taxation of war fortunes. A tax on war fortunes is a levy on capital, and nothing else.

TO-NIGHT'S DIVISION.

The Daily Mail, in a leading article, says:—The value of the House of Commons as an effective instrument for carrying on the Government of this country will be tested to-night, when the House divides on the "Vote of Confidence." Of course, Ministers and their creatures try to spread the belief that they are indispensable, and that there is "no alternative to the present Government." That is the usual defence of apathy and inaction, as it was the defence of Mr. Asquith in 1916. But the fact is that no administrative genius is required to spend money on a ruinous scale, and that no Ministry could have produced a worse financial muddle than the present one.

CASE OF REV. FATHER O'DONNELL.

A Reuter message from Melbourne says:—Both Mr. Hughes and Archbishop Mannix state that they have, so far, not received the cablegrams which Father O'Donnell, the Army Chaplain, who was arrested by the military authorities for alleged disloyalty in Ireland, is reported to have sent to them.

YUDENITCH'S PLIGHT.

Serious news of the position of General Yudenitch and his small North-West Army, near Petrograd, comes from the Morning Post Special Correspondent at Helsingfors. It now seems certain, he says, that the entire operations have resulted in failure, if not worse.

SHOOTING OF WAR PRISONERS.

THE CASE OF TWO IRISHMEN AT LIMBURG CAMP.

A telegram from Berlin on Wednesday says:—The Commission to inquire into complaints regarding the treatment of prisoners of war in Germany in contravention of international law will hold a public sitting on Friday. The cases to be dealt with include the shooting of a British prisoner named Cafferey, the wounding of a British prisoner named Bennett in Michein, and the shooting of the Irishmen, named respectively Moran and Devlin, in Limburg Camp.

THE ESCAPE OF SINN FEIN PRISONERS.

Brigadier-General Surtees asked the Home Secretary who was actually responsible for the recent escape of Sinn Fein prisoners from Manchester Jail, and what disciplinary measures he proposes to take in the matter.

Mr. Shortt, in a written reply, said—An inquiry into the circumstances of this affair is being held by one of His Majesty's Inspectors. Until I receive his report I shall not be in a position to say anything with regard to it.

AMERICAN MINERS TO STRIKE.

A Reuter's Indianapolis telegram of yesterday says:—After a conference of leaders of the United Mineworkers to-day, it was announced that the order for the coal strike still stands.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

The season, which was opened at the Gaiety Theatre on Monday by the Carl Rosa Opera Company with a performance of the "Tales of Hoffman," and followed on Tuesday evening with an excellent interpretation of "Faust," was continued last evening, when a large audience greatly enjoyed "Cavalleria Rusticana," which was followed, as usual, by "Pagliacci." Both operas were, on the whole, capably performed, and proved that the company possesses many reliable artists. In Mascagni's tale of rustic chivalry the parts were efficiently filled. Miss Annie Wallace acquitted herself with credit as Santuzza, and sang her music accurately. Miss Olive Gilbert as Lucia, and Miss Lea Felissa as Lola, also did well. There was no doubt about the earnestness of Mr. Albert Kirkman as Alfio, and while he may have at times overdone the part, he sang effectively. As Turriddu, Mr. Edward Williams was satisfactory. The chorus did full justice to the Easter Hymn, which was impressively sung, and the encore demanded for the orchestra's interpretation of the Intermezzo was richly deserved. A distinctive feature of "Pagliacci" was Mr. Frank Clarke's singing of the prologue, which fairly captured the audience. As Canio, Mr. John Perry again displayed his vocal gifts, and dramatically, too, he was effective. Miss Mary Fleming as "Nedda" made a very favourable impression, her vocalism being marked by confidence and accuracy. Messrs. Booth Hitchen and Guiseppe Barberis as Silvio and Beppe respectively, added strength to the cast. The chorus again won the approval of the audience, while the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Delmotte, was uniformly good. To-night—"Mignon."

THE EARL OF IVEAGH.

In the House of Lords yesterday, the Earl of Iveagh took his seat on his promotion to the Earldom.

NEW ENGLISH JUDGE.

It is officially announced that the King has approved the appointment of the Hon. Frank Russell, K.C., to be one of the Justices of the High Court of Justice, in the room of Mr. Justice Younger, appointed a Lord Justice of Appeal. The new Judge is the third son of the late Lord Russell of Killowen, and is 52 years of age.

THE IRISH PROBLEM.

SIR HORACE PLUNKETT'S OUTBURST.

"PRUSSIAN MILITARISM."

VIEWS ON SETTLEMENT.

Sir Horace Plunkett, speaking at the National Liberal Club, London, yesterday afternoon, on "An Irish Settlement," said:—My life's work lies in the field of social and economic endeavour. In that work I have been associated for thirty years with Irishmen of all religious and political beliefs, from every part of Ireland. For two decades I have kept clear of party issues, believing that economic development was a potent political development. In the early months of 1914, when we were on the verge of civil war, I did suggest that the Ulster Unionists should give a full and fair trial to Irish self-government, with the right to set up a government of their own if the plan failed. I loathe the partition of Ireland in any shape or form, but I had no fear of it if unity were fairly tried. In 1916 I protested against the abortive scheme based upon the exclusion of six Ulster counties, "the gift," as I said, "of half a Parliament to three-quarters of my country."

DOMINION HOME RULE.

We have provided ourselves with the two essentials of political action—a policy and an organisation. We demand for Ireland the status of a fully self-governing Dominion, with the single exception that, believing in the strategic unity of these islands, we concede unified naval and military control, which must be predominantly British, but in which, after a political settlement, Ireland should be able to play a useful part. Referring to the English government of Ireland, Sir Horace proceeded:—You are governing Ireland with the help of a huge Army of Occupation, with all the latest engines of destruction, which in England are already finding their proper place in museums. (Laughter.) This monstrous substitute for statesmanship is superimposed upon the largest police force, in proportion to population, in the world. The poor soldiers hate the job, but, of course, do their duty. The still more unfortunate police, subjected to this cruel ordeal, incur the odium of the Irish people, which ought to be confined to those responsible for the orders under which they act.

POLITICAL MURDERS.

In the circumstances, the country is marvellously free from serious crime. The Government recently published an ugly-looking statistics of crime attributable to Sinn Fein. The great majority of these consisted of expressing political opinion unpalatable to the military authorities. Some murders, which everyone must condemn, have been committed, and it is impossible to bring the perpetrators to justice. People who dare to protest against a régime which would not be tolerated for a moment by white people in any other part of the British Empire, are ruthlessly incarcerated. Does it mean nothing to you that even your English jails will not hold prisoners whom very free-born jailer knows in the bottom of his heart ought not to be there? I remember in one of the great military round-ups after the Easter Rebellion, being called upon by one of my Irish fellow-workers to intercede on behalf of his son, who had been arrested for having in his possession a suspicious document. It was a doctor's prescription written in Latin, with the usual weird hieroglyphics. The other day I learn that the police had orders to confiscate any documents they did not understand. By one of the latest proclamations, I see that when I go home I may find myself forbidden to leave my house after dark, and while John Bull sits on the safety valve the pressure rises. Beneath all this tragedy, this futility and farce, there is being established an Irish Republic with at least as much moral sanction as your Government can claim, and with ten times its political influence, not only upon the thought and action of the Irish people, but upon the anti-British sentiment throughout the world. Such is the achievement of the English Government in Ireland to-day.

IRISH CONVENTION'S ACHIEVEMENT.

Referring to the moral and political effects of repression, Sir Horace said: If the law has no moral sanction, the habit of breaking it will not long be confined to so-called political criminals. Every week that the country remains under this intolerable repression the difficulty of engendering respect for the law will be increased. It will be a terrible addition to the responsibilities and anxieties of the first Irish Government. It is said that during the war England did her best to redeem her long, overdue promise of self-government to Ireland, but that the Convention showed that the Irish were incapable of agreeing among themselves as to the kind of government they required. That is the civil answer, but as civil government has been replaced by military government, there is, of course, a military answer. The Irish Convention, some of whose secret history has been usefully divulged by The Times, in a manner which, I think, will compel further disclosures, strove during eight weary months for a settlement which would bring Ireland into the war. They tried to find a workable compromise between the two extremes—Sinn Fein, with as large a popular backing as any political party could desire; and a portion of Ulster, endowed with British pledges that it shall not be coerced to accept any settlement whatever. I adhere to the statement made in the letter transmitting the report to the Prime Minister that the Convention has "laid a foundation of Irish agreement unprecedented in history." Upon this foundation the Government proceeded to build an edifice of mingled mistrust, hatred, and contempt, which characterised the existing situation in Ireland. This is a grave statement, and needs justification.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Recalling the facts, Sir Horace said: On the morning of the 9th April last year I took the Report of the Convention to 10 Downing street. In the afternoon the Prime Minister had to introduce the last of his Military Service Bills. The situation on the Western Front demanded Ireland's full participation in the war, for the sake not only of the considerable number of fine Irish soldiers that would have become available immediately, not least from Unionist Ulster, but, perhaps, still more because England, Scotland, and Wales might have refused further drafts upon their manhood if Ireland still held back. Mr. Lloyd George could take one of two courses. The path of statesmanship was to call upon Ulster Unionists to come into the war, and bring the majority of their fellow-countrymen with them by agreeing to give a full and fair trial to an all-Ireland Government, provided that they were guaranteed adequate safeguards for their special interests. The South and West, as the proceedings of the Convention showed, would have gone to any lengths in meeting their wishes. Not having so low an opinion of Sir Edward Carson as he has of me, I believe that he and other Ulster leaders would have responded to such an appeal at such a crisis. They like on occasion to boast that they are Irishmen. The chance would have come to them to establish further their claim to lead their countrymen, "and win and wear the proudest share of Ireland's proudest tale." That was my dream as I sat in the Gallery listening to the Prime Minister's speech. Now for the awakening. He said: "An emergency has arisen which makes it necessary to put men of fifty and boys of eighteen into the Army to fight for liberty and independence—('and,' interrupted Mr. Devlin, 'small nationalities')—and, especially as my honourable friend reminds me, to fight for the liberty of small nationalities. I am perfectly certain that it is not possible to justify any longer the exclusion of Ireland." In other words, the Government which had admitted that equality of sacrifice could not be demanded without promised political concessions now proposed that the British Parliament should apply conscription to Ireland against the mute but eloquent protest of the Irish Parliament interned in the British Statute Book. The decision was as devoid of military advantage as it was fraught with political disaster. It created a situation worse than that which the Convention had striven to redeem. Mr. Lloyd George sought to console the Irish members, who knew that they had just listened to the pronouncement of their doom, that during the weeks which must elapse "before the actual enrolment begins" he intended to invite Parliament to pass a measure of self-government to Ireland. Nothing has been done except coercion, the one sorry consolation being that the patience of the British democracy must be as nearly exhausted as that of the Irish people.

THE PANACEA OF AUTONOMY.

Let us, therefore, consider what can now be done. I start with the assumption that you must at once substitute civil Government for Prussian militarism in Ireland, and that you wont wait to withdraw your Army until you can no longer afford to keep it there. (Laughter.) Never again must a British military force be employed for the establishment or support of any political system in any part of Ireland. Once this is conceded the road to an Irish settlement, which you have blocked, will be re-opened by a settlement—I mean one which may be reasonably expected to receive, not immediately, but when there has been time to examine it, the support of a majority of the Irish people. To fulfil this condition the unity of Ireland must be preserved. The proposal to set up two separate Irelands in the expectation that they will some day come together is open to the fatal objection that the Parliament of the majority would in all probability declare at once its sovereign independence, and then the North and South would never come together, except in the not improbable event of each having a quarrel with England. The path of wisdom is now to give to the Irish people a firm offer of the fullest measure of self-government, consistent with the necessities of the common defence of the United Kingdom. In other words, the status of a self-governing dominion, with defence reservations.

ULSTER'S REFUSAL.

You admit that the Irish question ought to be settled at once, but you say that there is no longer any difficulty in England, only in Ireland itself. What you mean is that Ulster says, "We wont have it," and England has promised not to coerce Ulster. The coercion bogey is for English consumption. The only real coercion is the moral coercion which Ulster applies to the British Government, who pass it on in the shape of physical coercion to the rest of Ireland. In effect you have made Ulster, or, more correctly, Belfast, the mandatory of Ireland without responsibility. The best way to redeem your pledge not to coerce Ulster is to take away the Army of Occupation, and then you cannot do the wicked thing.

HELPLESSNESS OF BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

Speaking on the question of a settlement by negotiation, Sir Horace said:—I have already suggested that the relations between the two islands should be settled by Parliament. The relations beween the different parts of Ireland cannot be settled in the British Parliament, where the Irish minority is at least fully represented, and the Irish majority is hardly represented at all. The relations between the different parts of Ireland can only be decided in a democratically elected assembly of the whole of Ireland. You can either set up an Irish Parliament at once to exercise such functions as can be exercised independently of the agreement which will have to be come to between the North-East corner and the rest of the country, or you can set up a similarly elected Convention or Constituent Assembly to decide these relations. Ulster, since it will be negotiating as a minority with a large majority, is entitled to demand that the settlement so arrived at should receive the sanction of the British Government as one which, in their opinion, provides reasonable safeguards for its special interests. If Ulster refuses to help, then an Irish Republic, which is already a righteous moral protest, will become an effective political reality. Speaking for moderate Irishmen—for so I may describe the Irish Dominions League—I ask you to give us a chance to conciliate both extremes.

A WORLD-WIDE QUESTION.

In conclusion, Sir Horace said—In condemning the English Government in Ireland, perhaps it might have sufficed to say that it is not English and not government. I was moved to make an emphatic protest against its continuance by seeing in yesterday's newspapers the wholly anomalous inclusion of Lord French and Mr. Macpherson as alternates in the new Cabinet. I interpreted this Box and Cox arrangement to mean that if Ireland is to be crushed the Field-Marshal will be sent for, and if she is to be governed until she governs herself, then the Chief Secretary. To me the bitterness of what is can only be measured by the glory of what might have been. All through the war, and, indeed, long before it, I have held that the orderly progress of Western civilisation depended more than on any one thing upon a right mutual understanding between the peoples of the American Republic and the British Commonwealth of Nations. I know, though I cannot prove it, that if your statesmanship in regard to Ireland had been as wise and generous as it had been the reverse, the Irish would have been in the war to the last man and the last women. And so great a factor is this Irish question in the world's judgment of Britain's sincerity in its concern for the liberties of oppressed nationalities that the war might have been shortened by months, if not years, and we might now have been in sight of peace. Yet the guilt does not lie with the British people. They do not know that they are not allowed to know the fact. The truth will out, and then the Irish question, as we have known it, will cease from troubling.

TO-DAY'S RECIPE.

A GOOD DINNER
is soon ready for those who use Brown & Polson's Corn Flour. It is the basis of the most nourishing soups, savoury dishes and sweets.

A glance at the recipe leaflet in the packet shews that it is more than a blanc-mange and custard maker.

Brown & Polson's
"Patent" Corn Flour
excels in making dishes that nourish and sustain.

STEAMED CHEESE SHAPE.
4 oz. rice.
1 gill milk.
2 oz. cheese (grated).
1 oz. Brown & Polson's Corn Flour.
3 gills rice or potato water.
Seasoning to taste.

Simmer the rice until the water is absorbed, then add half the milk. Mix the Corn Flour smoothly with rest of milk, and stir into the rice. Cook gently for 2 or 3 minutes, stirring well; mix in the cheese and plenty of seasoning, and pour into a mould. Steam for 20 minutes to half hour.

COUNTY TYRONE MEETING PROCLAIMED.

In connection with the trouble which has arisen in Caledon, County Tyrone, in relation to the holding of a Hibernian demonstration on Saturday next, some excitement was caused last evening, by the publication of a proclamation by Brigadier-General Hackett-Pain, prohibiting all processions and meetings in or about Caledon, on the ground that such would contribute to a breach of the peace, and promote dissatisfaction.

Last night a crowded meeting of all sections of Nationalists was held in the Caledon Hibernian Hall. Mr. Skeffington, who was the principal speaker, referring to the proclamation, said that it would not prevent their meeting being held. He advocated calmness, and urged them to do nothing which would enable Sir James Stronge and his Orange satellites to place the responsibility for anything that might take place on the shoulders of the Nationalists. They demanded the right to meet in County Tyrone, and their meeting would go on.

M'CREA-MAGEE COLLEGE.

A TRIBUTE TO TRINITY.

Professor J. R. Leebody, M.A., D.Sc., President of the Faculty, presided at the opening public meeting of the session 1919-20 in connection with McCrea-Magee College, in Londonderry, yesterday. He said that it was a great matter for students of ability and industry to have the opportunity afforded them of having their scholarship rewarded by the degrees and distinctions of such a time-honoured University as Trinity College, Dublin. (Applause.) That privilege was now available for all candidates for the Presbyterian ministry who took their Arts course in the M'Crea-Magee College. It was likely that at no very distant date the majority of the younger Presbyterian clergy would be graduates of Trinity College. Should this anticipation be realised it would tend considerably to promote the cause of Protestant union. If the clergy of the two leading Protestant denominations in Ireland were graduates of the same University conjoint action on many public questions would be greatly facilitated. (Applause.)

The scholarships and prizes having been distributed by the President, the opening lecture was delivered by the Rev. Professor David Smith, M.A., D.D., who took as his subject "St. Paul's School Days."

The meeting closed with the pronouncing of the Benediction and the singing of the National Anthem.

OUR FINANCIAL POSITION.

Office, 67 millions was deferred payments. Expenditure had risen on paper by 60 millions. Of that, certain items could not be challenged, such as 12 millions for increased pay and 13 millions for gratuities. Delay in demobilisation caused by the strike cost five millions. The only item on which he could admit the slightest impeachment was six millions, due to the fact that they had not succeeded in demobilising the Army as fast as they hoped originally. The salvage, collecting, and guarding of stores by the Army, and the handing over by the troops to the Disposal Board, had involved them in enormous work and great expense.

A GIGANTIC TASK.

At the armistice there were in the possession of the Quartermaster-General's Department stores which had been valued at over £1,100,000,000 sterling. This immense amount of property was littered about the ground, in every theatre of war in which our armies had penetrated. More than £250,000,000 worth of marketable stores had been sold by the Army or handed over to the Munitions Disposal Board, and about three to four hundred millions worth were still in the hands of the Army. He was not asking that the War Office should appropriate the profits realised from the sale of these stores. The heavy financial charge which had been imposed on the Army in connection with these stores ought to be taken into consideration by the public and the House in judging the total Army expenditure. If these stores had not been so dealt with by the Army, demobilisation would have been accelerated, and there would have been a saving on that account of some £30,000,000. He had been charged with under-estimating the expenditure and over-estimating the rate of demobilisation. He hoped that the House would realise the immense complexity of the process of demobilisation. Almost a year had passed since the fighting ceased. They had then nearly five millions of men in the Army, scattered about the world, and, together with those, an enormous mass of valuable stores. Surely it would have been absurd to expect that these enormous armies and mountains of stores could be removed at once by the wave of a wand. He denied that £500,000,000 were being spent on keeping up the Army in time of peace. That was the cost of demobilising the gigantic armies which existed at the armistice. By no conceivable exercise of administrative skill, and no explosion of wrath, however vehement, could that expense have been avoided. The war had to come to an end some time, and, when that happened, it had to be paid for. The demobilising of thirteen thousand men per day since November last, and the troubles in India and Afghanistan, had added to the cost. Demobilisation had been impeded by the difficulties the Allies were experiencing in arriving at a permanent settlement with Turkey. The situation in Turkey was getting worse as the delay continued. We were in a position to release every single man—certainly every single unit in the Middle East and India—as far as shipping could be provided. In addition, there were in France 198,000 German prisoners to guard, and over 100,000 Chinese and native labourers. They had about 18,000 men engaged in exhuming the bodies of 160,000 soldiers in isolated graves, and putting them into cemeteries before they were handed over to the Imperial War Graves Commission.

REPATRIATION OF PRISONERS.

When he last addressed the House they had in England 70,000 German prisoners; in France and Flanders nearly 200,000, in Egypt 120,000 Turkish prisoners, and in Mesopotamia about 20,000, making a total of 400,000 or 500,000 prisoners in our hands. They only obtained authority to begin the repatriation of German prisoners in September. All prisoners in France and Flanders had already been repatriated. (Cheers.) Those in England were now returning as rapidly as shipping would allow. The Turkish prisoners were a more difficult matter, as we had not yet made peace with Turkey, and throughout that country there was widespread disturbance, and they certainly did not want them to go back in order that they might join the standard of some rebel in Turkey. At the armistice the numbers in France, Flanders, and Germany of British troops, prisoners of war, Chinese and natives, were over 3,000,000. On the 15th November that number would have been reduced to 300,000. It would be down to 90,000 by Christmas, and at the end of the financial year France and Flanders would be completely wound up, and there would be only the Cologne garrison.

CONDITION OF THE ARMY.

The condition of the Army in January and February of this year had caused widespread anxiety; but in consequence of new rules of demobilisation and large increases in pay the discipline and temper of the Army had been restored. The House, in February, had sanctioned an Army beginning with 2,100,000 British soldiers, and falling to 825,000 at the end of the financial year. On November 15th the total of British soldiers would have fallen to 500,000. By Christmas the number would have fallen to about 430,000, and on March 31st to less than 300,000, all voluntarily enlisted. They had demobilised 3½ millions of men, and of these nearly 3½ million were now productively employed.

THE WITHDRAWAL FROM RUSSIA.

We had extricated our Forces from North Russia safely and skilfully, without disaster to the Russians, who were dependent upon us; without disaster or loss to ourselves, and without dishonour to our reputation. The withdrawal had been skilfully carried out under Lord Rawlinson, and he must also mention the work of Generals Ironside and Maynard. (Cheers.) There was also a great improvement in the position of the anti-Bolshevik Forces. (Hear, hear.) General Denikin had gained enormous territory—the richest part of Russia—and had taken 270,000 prisoners, who were being humanely treated. His Army was now about three or four hundred thousand, while the ratio of Bolshevik to anti-Bolshevik Forces was now only 460,000 to 640,000, as against 430,000 to 320,000 in March. The operations in Russia were no cause of the present excess, as earlier estimates included the maintenance of the Army. The brigade at Batoum would be withdrawn in a few weeks. The munitions and stores supplied had not affected the total of these estimates, as they came out of the £1,100,000,000 surplus stores. He would lay before the House, before the next debate on Army matters, a revised estimate of the expenditure incurred. They had notified General Denikin that we should expect him to become self-supporting after the close of this financial quarter. The Cabinet had approved a final contribution to him of surplus stores worth £15,000,000. He hoped that they would not be reproached with pursuing a military or megalomaniac policy at the War Office. Alone among the nations we had taken steps which would, in a few months, abolish conscription. (Hear, hear.) Many had had on their lips the sentiments of the League of Nations and disarmament, but this was the only Government in Europe that had translated them into a great and swift policy of disarmament, and this was the Government which asked, and he hoped would receive, the country's confidence.

SIR T. KINLOCH COOKE.

Sir T. Kinloch Cooke advised the Government to issue Premium Bonds as a means of obtaining money from a great class of investors who were not attracted by the ordinary issues.

Mr. J. Wallace, Sir C. Parker Sykes, Captain Loseby, Captain Coote, Mr. A. M. Samuel, and Mr. Evelyn Cecil having spoken,

Mr. Arthur Henderson commented on the absence of suggestions for dealing with the difficulties of the situation which was the inevitable outcome of the policy that had been pursued by the Government. He was not satisfied that all had been done that might have been done to decrease the cost of armaments. The Government speeches had left a doubtful impression on the House. All sections of the House were exceedingly anxious to see the financial situation grappled with firmly, expeditiously and effectively. No party need be anxious to succeed the present Government. He was not in favour of retrenchment at the expense of education, housing, or health insurance. He marvelled at the pleasure with which the suggestion was received that the unemployment grant should be stopped. It would be far better that we should stop unemployment. (Cheers.) By stopping the grant until a real effort was made to prevent unemployment we might find ourselves in a much worse, rather than in a better, position. He thought that the Government should have come forward with some definite proposals for dealing with the financial situation. The Labour Party had come to the conclusion that the position was so serious that no mere policy of retrenchment would meet the case. We must find some fresh source of income, such as a graduated levy on capital. Fortunes made as a result of the war should be entirely expropriated. Any Government inquiry into the matter should be short and sharp.

Colonel Lambert Ward criticised the expenditure of the War Office.

The debate was adjourned on the motion of Mr. Clynes.

BIG SHIPPING DEAL.

REPORTED SALE OF G. AND J. BURNS'S FLEET.

Arrangements are in course of completion, says the Belfast Telegraph, by which the passenger and cargo services of Messrs. G. and J. Burns, Ltd., Glasgow, the bulk of which run to Belfast, will shortly pass under the control of Messrs. Powell, Bacon, and Hough, Ltd., whose huge interests in the coastwise shipping trade are linked together in the syndicate known as "The Coast Lines, Ltd." This syndicate has been buying up cross-Channel and coastwise fleets in wholesale fashion during recent years, and it is estimated that it now controls four-fifths of the tonnage of the cross-Channel and coastwise trades. During the present month it has taken over several Irish and English concerns. The negotiations were practically completed in London this week, and the transaction will, if not already closed, be finally settled in the course of a few days.

POSITION OF BELFAST STEAMSHIP CO.

With reference to a rumour prevalent in Belfast that the Belfast Steamship Company, Ltd., had been acquired by the Coast Lines, we understand that no such step has been taken. It is remarkable, however, that the shares of the company have advanced rapidly of late, and at present are quoted at £340, while a short time ago they were below £50, while the "A" Shares, which were quoted at £10, are now £34. There is a general feeling that an offer is about to be made for the company from the names of those associated with the share transactions of the past few weeks.

NEW ISSUE.

THE SALVAGE AND TOWAGE COMPANY, LIMITED.

This company has a capital of £1,250,000 in shares of £1 each, of which 160,000 are to be taken fully paid as part of the purchase price, and 640,000 shares are now offered for subscription at par by Lloyd's Bank. The objects of the company, as the name suggests, are two-fold—one as ship and tug owners and towage contractors, and the other marine salvage contractors and wreck removers. Ocean tonnage work is highly remunerative, and in salvage work a moderate percentage of success secures a large profit. The company has a wide field for salvage operations on the wrecks of large vessels sunk by enemy action during the war. All the shares in the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, will be acquired, with its three salvage steamers and two first-class tugboats in full working order, together with pumps, salvage gear, and plant taken over from the Admiralty. The value of the steamers and plant is stated to be £210,000. The company will also acquire Vickers Pontoons, Ltd., a company with a capital of £90,000 and £4,000 in cash assets. After paying for these concerns the company will have about £400,000 in cash, together with the cash assets of the acquired concerns, available for its general purposes. All the shares have been underwritten, and the directors will proceed to allotment immediately on the closing of the lists. There is, of course, a considerable element of speculation in the venture, and the shares are for those who have special knowledge of shipping operations of this class. The share list will close on or before Tuesday, 4th prox. (Prospectus, page 9.)

COMING EVENT.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A good many efforts were made in Dublin (before the war) to give orchestral concerts, and these, it may be said, met with only partial success. Yet is it not true that the music-loving public gave its support when its convenience as to time and place was considered, and naturally failed to do so when due regard was not paid to these vital matters? The financial difficulties are now very great, but are by no means insurmountable. The scale of remuneration for the services of professionals is a big item. The rule that amateurs may not play in an orchestra where professionals are employed and the cost of advertising combine to make the price of orchestral music very high, but not yet prohibitive. This means that you must make the concerts appeal to a wide public. Well-known classical music, well played in a comfortable building at a suitable time, unquestionably appeals to the cultivated public the world over. Is Dublin an exception to this rule? It is to be hoped that the answer to this question will be forthcoming this winter.

Sunday afternoons, from 3 to 4.30, are the best time for everyone concerned. In the week-day evenings the musicians are nearly all engaged. Sunday evening is still rightly reserved for home or church, and week-day afternoons are, of course, out of the question for very many people. The place for a concert is at the present time the outstanding problem. The old concert rooms are not available. The Round Room of the Mansion House is not at all suitable from an acoustic point of view. The available theatres do not open their doors on Sundays. But of one thing we may rest assured—the concerts will come. The orchestra can be readily organised; everything points to there being a keen and widespread desire for music in Dublin; and the problem of the place cannot be insoluble.—Yours, etc.,

F. J. ROMANES.

Dublin, October 29th, 1919.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of to-day a letter appears on the subject of Dublin music in which your correspondent answers your question, "Why should the Irish capital be starved?" by saying that our public decline to support local efforts to nourish them. May I be permitted to express my profound conviction of the truth—the dangerous half-truth—of this statement? "Lover of Music" has undoubtedly hit the nail on the head—and hit it so badly out of the straight that it will take an expert joiner to get it into true. Nevertheless, I venture to expose once again the canting mis-statement that Dublin will not support musical ventures.

Like every other intelligent race on the earth's surface, Irish folk will listen to good music enthusiastically, and, furthermore, pay for it generously where and when they find it. How often do they find it? And how often do the worthy promoters of these nourishing "local efforts," who dare to accuse us men-in-the-street of apathy towards the greatest and yet the most universal artistic form, give it to us? To say that they lamentably fail in their self-imposed duty is to forbear from additional just emphasis. When our "local musical efforts" in Dublin are guided by men who know what the world's greatest music has been and what it is, when we have the marvellously beautiful chamber-music of Scarlatti, of Corelli, of J. S. Bach, and the splendour of Mozart and Beethoven alike reverently and nobly given, when our church music has more—far more—of the Roman treasure of the old Catholic ecclesiastical composers, when we can hear the old songs and all the fine things the song-writers of our own time have done for us, when we get a little of the best from the infinitely seductive storehouses of modern European composition, when we have given us the operas of those Russians, Frenchmen, and Englishmen who first discovered the meaning of operatic form, when the sinister shackles of Italian opera shall be loosed and the Victorian musical-box broken, when we get rid of further ponderous attempts at forcible feeding by the promoters of the present standard of "local effort"—then music-loving Dublin will swiftly put its hand into its pocket.—Yours, etc.,

C. BLAKE WHELAN.

AMALGAMATION OF PARISHES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your leading article of the 24th inst. does valiant service for the Church. With regard to the amalgamation of parishes, which is so generally opposed by parishioners, will you permit me to say that the placing of one or more parishes in charge of a neighbouring clergyman (until happier times) would have the desired effect of improving clerical incomes, while still retaining to every parish its sentimental and separate existence?—Yours, etc.,

ARBOUR HILL CEMETERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In these days, when so much sentiment is being expended over cenotaphs and memorials to "our glorious dead" abroad, it is surely incumbent on the Army authorities to look to the decent conservation of existing military cemeteries at home. I happen to have a near relative buried in the Arbour Hill Garrison churchyard, which is not only a pathless jungle of weeds, but is also inaccessible to visitors incapable of climbing over iron railings and locked gates. Is it asking too much that a soldier from the barracks hard by should be detailed to keep the churchyard in order, leaving the gates unlocked by day? I have twice, on successive Sundays, after morning (parade) Service, failed to gain admission to the place; nor was there anybody at hand who could help me to do so.—Yours, etc.,

IRISH POLICE PENSIONERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In connection with your leader to-day, your Parliamentary report, and the Treasury's contention that police pensioners "were part of a gigantic Civil Service, and that any addition made to them would have to be made to every single member of the Civil Service," does it not effect the question that when, several years ago, retiring Civil Servants were allowed to capitalise a quarter of their annual pension—a very valuable boon—such advantage was refused to the Irish Constabulary? The ground was that they were not Civil Servants, but a distinct and separate body under special Acts of Parliament.—Yours, etc.,

THE SOLDIERS' CANTEEN, BALLSBRIDGE.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S CALL TO IRELAND.

THOUGH you may not realise it, you in Ireland, as others in all countries, owe much to the great Hospital of St. Bartholomew's. It is the oldest Hospital in the World, and the sick and afflicted have been its care for 800 years. At Bartholomew's medical and surgical science have acquired much of the basic knowledge and the skilled treatment which you receive from your doctor.

SOLDIERS of every Irish regiment were healed of their wounds in St. Bartholomew's. Hundreds of Irish men, women and children are among the Hospital's patients every year.

YOU in Ireland may regard it as an invasion for this Hospital in London to appeal to you. But St. Bartholomew's does not regard it as strange when people travel from Ireland to "Bart's." For instance:—a man was sent by his doctor in Ireland to St. Bartholomew's. His fingers were contracted, stiffened and as useless as wooden pegs. Radium treatment at "Bart's" (not available in Ireland) restored the full use of his hand.

THAT is just one instance out of innumerable many of St. Bartholomew's power and readiness to heal. It is no reflection on the skill of Irish doctors—it is an illustration of the resources possible only in a Hospital of St. Bartholomew's status and practice. The electrical and light-ray treatments at "Bart's" are others.

"BART'S CHRONICLE"

The first newspaper to tell in photographs (16 pages) every detail in the life and work of a great hospital. Post free for two penny stamps.

The Hon. Appeal Director,
26 Great Ormond Street,
London, W.C.1.

NO Fees—no subscriber's tickets—no letters of recommendation required at St. Bartholomew's.

FROM Ireland as from all parts of the world students come to "Bart's" to receive or complete their education as doctors and surgeons in the oldest and at the same time the most modern medical school in the world. Thus the Hospital's vast experience and the results of its ever advancing science go forth to fight against pain, disease and death everywhere.

NOT a London hospital or a British hospital, but the great Institution of Healing for all suffering Humanity.

TO IRISHMEN AND IRISHWOMEN

of all creeds and parties we appeal in this hour of St. Bartholomew's need. To enable it to continue its great work among the sick and afflicted a bank overdraft of £36,000 must be wiped off and the income increased by £30,000 a year. Otherwise the hospital must curtail its work for the first time in its history of 800 years. Instead of being able to rebuild parts of the hospital, it has been compelled to close its Convalescent Home.

ARE the sick and needy who trudge or voyage to St. Bartholomew's for healing and relief from pain to be sent away untended? Is the medical knowledge and skill which St. Bartholomew's Hospital has given freely to the world to cease?

IT RESTS WITH YOU

Your little will help St. Bartholomew's a lot in its never-ceasing fight against disease and suffering and death.

IT IS FIGHTING FOR YOU.

DUBLIN BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

THE CONSUMPTION OF COAL.

APPLICATION BY MEDICAL OFFICERS.

The weekly meeting of the Dublin Board of Guardians was held yesterday—the Chairman, Mr. John Scully, J.P., presiding.

Mrs. Evans asked Mr. F. J. McCarthy, Local Government Board Inspector, who was present, if the appointment of Mr. Williams, who had been recently selected to supervise the distribution of outdoor relief coal, had been sanctioned.

The Clerk replied that the Local Government Board had sanctioned Mr. Williams's appointment.

Mrs. Evans described it as a direct insult to the Guardians if the Local Government Board sanctioned a man that they themselves ordered the Guardians to dismiss.

The Chairman pointed out that the Board of Guardians made the appointment, and not Mr. McCarthy.

Mrs. Evans—With a great many dissentients.

The Chairman said that Mr. Williams was guaranteed through a guarantee society, the same as the other officers.

Mrs. Evans said that she had written Mr. McCarthy to say that she was sorry that Mr. Williams was going to be appointed.

Alderman O'Toole said that Mr. Williams had been appointed almost unanimously.

The matter dropped.

CONSUMPTION OF COAL.

Mr. Ganly proposed that, as the prevailing public opinion was that there was a gross waste of coal prevalent in each dispensary district, and as the independent committee already appointed was inoperative, seven members of the Board be appointed to go into and determine the matter.

Mr. Crimmins seconded the motion.

Mrs. Evans said that what was needed was an inquiry by an independent committee from outside.

The Chairman expressed the opinion that they should ask the Local Government Board to send down an Inspector and report to the Guardians.

Mr. Ganly said that it was a question whether the Guardians would grapple with the question or whether they would not. The members of the outside public thought that the question of the coal was much bigger than it really was. The Guardians should make a serious effort to inquire into the matter, and, if the Local Government Board were not satisfied, then let them step in and take action.

The Chairman said that at the last meeting an amendment was moved by Professor Shields that in future twelve tons be supplied to each dispensary, and a lesser amount to dispensaries now getting less than that amount. The newspapers had given prominence to charges made, but they never published the amendment, which gave the direct negative to the question that there was any extravagance at all in the consumption of coal.

Mr. Metcalfe said that the Clerk of Works should go round and inspect the fireplaces, and see if they were the fault of the extra consumption.

Mrs. Evans said that the reason that she moved that twelve tons be given was because the pistol was at her head, and she had to make the best of a bad bargain.

Mr. Richardson said that Mrs. Evans was playing the same old game as on last Wednesday. The whole thing was for a Press propaganda. The Press had got what he described as a lying statement about the amount of coal consumed by the relieving officer. In the case of Relieving Officer Kavanagh, he held that eleven tons for three fires was reasonable. All the bother was being made as part of a political propaganda, which was circulated outside Ireland as propaganda against the country. There was a day when people came there for the purpose of proselytising, but that day was gone. Now they came for another purpose.

It was eventually agreed that the Clerk should prepare a return of the coal consumed in each dispensary for the information of the Guardians.

ADMISSION OF RATHDOWN INMATES.

The Rathdown Guardians wrote accepting the terms laid down by the Dublin Board on which they would admit the healthy inmates from Rathdown, the proposal being to close that workhouse, except the department for the treatment of the sick poor, which it was proposed to continue without the stigma of pauperism.

Mr. McCarthy, Local Government Board Inspector, explained the matter, and said that the Guardians would be helping in a long-felt reform of the closing of workhouses. He was satisfied that the terms quoted would indemnify the ratepayers of Dublin against any possible loss. They had laid down the terms at the general average cost, plus 1s. per head per week for establishment charges. He thought that this would show a slight balance in favour of Dublin. He did not anticipate that more than 150 would come out of the 220 who were to leave Rathdown, so that there would not be any considerable increase.

Following a discussion, Mr. Stafford moved a motion, of which he had given notice, to rescind the resolution by which the Guardians had agreed to take in the Rathdown inmates. He contended that the inmates could be more economically kept at Rathdown than in Dublin by boarding them out.

Mr. Colgan seconded.

The Chairman moved as an amendment that the Rathdown Board be asked to pay 5s. per head per week for establishment charges.

Mr. Gately seconded, and the amendment was passed by 23 votes to 9.

DOCTORS' SALARIES.

A letter was received from Dr. M. Maughan, Hon. Secretary City and County Dublin Poor Law Medical Officers' Association, stating that at a meeting on the 6th inst. it was decided to request that their salaries be increased by 110 per cent. on the pre-war rate, and they confidently hoped that the Board would favourably consider their application.

Mr. O'Hanlon said that they had already dealt with the doctors under the scale.

It was decided to send a copy of the letter to the Local Government Board without any comment or recommendation.

RATHDOWN WORKHOUSE.

SUPERANNUATION OF OFFICIALS.

At Rathdown Guardians' meeting yesterday, Mr. Thomas Clarke, J.P., Chairman, presiding, Mr. J. F. MacCarthy, Local Government Board Inspector, wrote stating that, as regards the statutory notice of intention to superannuate officers on abolition of office in connection with the closing of the workhouse, a full calendar month must be given.

The Local Government Board stated that the Guardians' solicitor should now prepare for approval a formal agreement in connection with the transfer of the healthy inmates to the Dublin Union.

The Local Government Board wrote to the Guardians stating that they were not prepared to sanction a higher rate of remuneration than £6 6s. a week for the vacation substitute for the Medical Officer for Killiney District.

Mr. Cunniam, Clerk, said that Dr. Lynch stated that he would undertake the duty for £7 7s. a week.

It was decided to send Dr. Lynch's letter to the Local Government Board.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES OF IRELAND.

Mr. T. J. Westropp (President) presided at a meeting of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland, which was held at 63 Merrion square, Dublin, on Tuesday night. A paper dealing with public documents of Ireland, and illustrated with 20 slides of original deeds, dated 1174-1235, formerly belonging to Christ Church Cathedral, were shown. The first group, extending from 1185 to 1206, related to the transfer of land in Dublin City and suburbs, and were similar to assignments of land for building or other purposes at the present day. The next group related to pious donations to Holy Trinity Church to provide lights before religious objects of special veneration. Other records shown represented an important report on the bishopric of Glendalough in 1214, and a Papal Bull of Pope Gregory IX. in 1235.

Mr. H. S. Crawford read a paper, with lantern illustrations, on the altar and mural decorations in Sligo Dominican Friary. It was decorated elaborately with 15th century carving. There were many monuments to the great people of the time inserted in the walls. One was erected in memory of the O'Creen family in 1506. The front was ornamental with carving, and niches in the wall contained figures of saints. Another interesting monument was that of Sir Donogh O'Connor, one of the great chiefs of the period. It was erected by his widow, who had been the wife of the great Earl of Desmond.

A Constantinople (undated) telegram states:—A telegram has been received here from Balih Pasha, who has been sent on a mission to Anatolia, stating that he has had a meeting at Amassia with Kustapha Kamal Pasha, the leader of the Nationalist movement. The Turkish Government is negotiating with the Allies for an advance of credits.

LAW REPORTS.

DUBLIN LADY'S ESTATE.—In the Chancery Division, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Powell, in an action brought by Mrs. Jane Gibson, of Dartmouth square, Dublin, and others, against Miss Susan Graydon, of Mountpleasant square, Ranelagh, for the carrying into execution of the trusts of the will of the late John Smith Proctor, and for a declaration that a sum of £331 11/5, proceeds of the sale of certain shares formerly standing in the name of Louisa Proctor, deceased, formed part of the funds, subject to the trusts of the will of John S. Proctor. Mr. J. Creed Meredith, K.C., with whom was Mr. H. Hughes (instructed by Messrs. H. T. Dix and Sons), on behalf of the plaintiffs, applied for judgment on the issues found by the Chief Clerk in his certificate, which showed that of the £331 11/5 claimed, £315 3/- represented property that was subject to the trusts of the will of John S. Proctor. Mr. Swayne, K.C. (instructed by Mr. Ampleford), for the defendant, said that his client was entitled to set off certain claims for maintenance. Mr. Justice Powell directed that the action should be set down for trial on the issues found by the Chief Clerk in his certificate.

CO. LIMERICK WILL CASE.—At Nisi Prius yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice and a city special jury, a probate action was heard in which Patrick O'Donnell, of Ballycullane, Kilmallock, sought to have recalled and revoked a grant of probate made in common form, and of a will, dated 28th October, 1916, made by his mother, Mary O'Donnell, who died on 21st November, 1916, plaintiff relying on the usual Statutory grounds, and counterclaiming that he was entitled to a grant of administration. The defendant was Margaret O'Donnell, sister of the plaintiff. She denied the allegations made by the plaintiff, and asked for probate in solemn form. It appeared that the late Mrs. O'Donnell succeeded to the farm at Ballycullane, and other effects, of her deceased husband. By her will she left the farm and all the effects to her daughter Margaret. She left a legacy of £400 to her son Michael, and £200 to her son Patrick (the plaintiff), saying that she was dissatisfied with the conduct of Patrick. Mr. Roger Fox, solicitor, and his assistant, Mr. E. Walsh, having been examined as to the testamentary capacity of the deceased and as to the making and execution of her will a settlement was arrived at. By this consent the defendant agreed that, on the plaintiff leaving the family house and lands, and undertaking to leave the defendant in quiet possession, she would pay to the plaintiff £250, over and above any sums of money he had already received from her, and also agreed to pay his costs of the action. On this consent being received, the jury found in favour of the will, which was accordingly admitted to probate in solemn form. Mr. P. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. J. A. Rearden (instructed by Mr. John J. Power) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Serjeant McSweeney, Mr. M. Corrigan, K.C., and Mr. Patrick Kelly (instructed by Mr. Roger Fox) for the defendant.

BELFAST LADY'S CLAIM.—In the Chancery Division, the Master of the Rolls gave judgment in the case of Anna O'C. Ballam v. George Alfred Brittain and others. It was a summons instituted by Mrs. Ballam, of North Parade, Belfast, executrix of the will of her husband, George W. Ballam, late of Manorhamilton, Co. Leitrim, against George A. Brittain, of Argyle road, Dublin, and Alec Ballam, of North Parade, Belfast, for the determination of the steps to be taken by the plaintiff and the defendant, G. A. Ballam, trustees, for the realisation of the estate of the deceased. It appeared that differences arose between the trustees as to the manner of the application of the estate. In his judgment, the Master of the Rolls stated that in the absence of agreement between the two trustees the matter was at a deadlock, and the only course open to him was to make a decree for the administration of the estate, inasmuch as it had not been fully realised. After the accounts were passed Mr. Brittain could be discharged from his trusteeship, as he was desirous of being, and thereupon the estate would be immediately divisible in equal shares among the plaintiff and her children. Mr. Andrews, K.C., and Mr. Megaw (instructed by Messrs. Cleaver and Fulton) appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. T. W. Brown, K.C. (instructed by Mr. G. Berney) appeared for the defendant, G. A. Ballam, and Mr. J. M. Whittaker, K.C. (instructed by Mr. W. C. Wilson), appeared for the defendant, Alexander Ballam.

KILDARE WILL SUIT.—The will of an old woman named Maria Keegan, of Kilgowan, Kilcullen, Co. Kildare, was the subject of an action before Mr. Justice Samuels and a city common jury at Nisi Prius yesterday. The plaintiff, Miss Elizabeth Kelly, who was a beneficiary under a former will, disputed the last will, dated 1918, on the ground that the testatrix did not possess testamentary capacity. By the disputed will, she left her money (about £92) to the Rev. James Russell, then curate of the parish, and her farm to Mr. John Doyle, J.P. It was suggested by plaintiff's counsel that the lady suffered from delusions, but this was controverted by medical and other testimony. The jury found in favour of the will, and a verdict was accordingly entered for defendant. The jury expressed the view that the plaintiff had not been well treated by the testatrix, whom she occasionally helped in the household and farm. Mr. W. A. Ryan (instructed by Mr. R. J. Dodd) appeared for plaintiff. Mr. De Renzy, K.C., and Mr. R. Kinahan (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann) for the defendant.

ACTION AGAINST THE WAR OFFICE.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Gibson and Mr. Justice Kenny, in the case of Wallis and Sons, carriers, Dublin, against the King, which was a claim for £718, due for the carriage of oats by the plaintiffs, for the War Office, under a contract, Mr. Price, K.C., with whom was Mr. E. A. Collins (instructed by Messrs. Casey, Clay, and Collins), appeared for an order for a new trial. The case was tried by Mr Justice Dodd and a special jury in June last, and a verdict, by direction of the judge, was found for the respondent. The new trial was asked for on the ground that the judge had misdirected the jury by with-holding from them evidence that there was a trade usage, or custom, in Dublin, whereby oats are loaded, or conveyed, in lots, or quantities, each of the weight of 196 lbs., and whereby also the word "barrel" means a bag containing 196 lbs. The plaintiffs entered into a contract with the War Office to cart oats for them in Dublin at 3½d. per barrel of 196 lbs. The War Office authorities introduced a smaller sack, some of 80 lbs. and some of 112 lbs., and for carrying these the plaintiffs charged at the rate of 2/3 per ton per mile. The War Office declined to pay. The custom in Dublin was to recognise the 196 lbs. bag as a barrel of oats. Mr. Justice Kenny—How did you suffer damage? Mr. Price—In this way—that with the smaller sacks Messrs. Wallis' men had to make many more journeys from the cart to the wagons, and it thereby took three men to do the work of two. We also say that the smaller sacks were inconvenient for packing in carts. We charged the general tonnage rate. Mr. Serjeant Sullivan, Mr. Best, K.C., and Mr. Cecil Fforde (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor), appeared for the respondent, and, after argument, the Court expressed the opinion that the plaintiffs were entitled to be paid at the tonnage rate, and gave liberty for a new trial, with costs.

ACTION FOR COMMISSION.—In the King's Bench Division, before Mr. Justice Moore, in the case of Smith and Son v. Leitch and Co., Mr. Megaw (instructed by Messrs. J. K. Currie and Co.) applied on behalf of the plaintiffs, who are flax-millers at Ballymena, to have a consent settling the action made a rule of court. The action was brought against the defendants, who are wholesale flax merchants at Belfast, to recover money alleged to be due in respect of sales of flax by the plaintiffs, who had been appointed agents for the purpose by the defendants. The consent provided that a sum of £50, which had been lodged in court, should be paid to the plaintiffs in settlement of their claim, together with 15 guineas costs. The judge received the consent, and made it a rule of court.

QUARREL ABOUT A WATERCOURSE.—The Master of the Rolls delivered judgment yesterday in the action, Fennessy v. McCalmont, which stood over from last sittings. The action was brought by Edward Fennessy, farmer, against Major D. McCalmont, of Mount Juliet, Co. Kilkenny, to recover damages for the diversion by the defendant or his servants, of a watercourse at Norelands, and for an injunction against the continuance of such diversion. The plaintiff, who is also a merchant in the City of Kilkenny, became owner of a farm at Johnswell, in the year 1890. This farm is separated from the defendant's land by a public road. The plaintiff's case was that from a well on the defendant's land water flowed, by means of an artificial conduit, under the road into the plaintiff's land, and that it had been doing so for at least sixty years. The defendant, he alleged, diverted the overflow from the well, and so deprived the plaintiff of the water. The defendant's case was that neither the plaintiff nor his predecessor in title had any right to the water that flowed through the artificial watercourse. The Master of the Rolls, holding that the plaintiff had failed to sustain his claim, dismissed the action, with costs to the defendant. Counsel for the plaintiff—Messrs. Herbert Wilson, K.C.; Pigot, K.C., and Kinahan (instructed by Mr. Buggy). For the defendant—Messrs. Jollett, K.C.; Sealy, K.C., and C. Fforde (instructed by Messrs. J. Poe and Son).

MR. JUSTICE PIM, at 11.—City of Dublin Commission (continued).

DUBLIN COMMISSION.

THE ATTACK ON AN HOSPITAL NURSE.

A PRISONER'S TERRIBLE RECORD.

At the resumption of the business of the Dublin City Commission yesterday, before Mr. Justice Pim, Mr. Carrigan, K.C., with whom was Mr. Dudley White, K.C. (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor), applied to have a charge of larceny against a girl named Mary Carroll taken up first. His reason for doing so was that a constable who was an essential witness was attending hospital for treatment, having sacrificed a quantity of blood in an attempt to save the life of a comrade who was fatally shot.

Mr. Justice Pim—Where is the constable now?

Mr. Carrigan—He is here in court, but, as I have said, he is attending hospital for treatment.

Mary Carroll pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of stealing an overcoat the property of Sarah Emerson, a fellow-employé at Jacob's Factory.

Sarah Emerson stated she missed the overcoat in June last, and did not see it again until she saw the defendant wearing it in the street on 9th October.

In reply to Mr. Gleeson, who (instructed by Mr. James Brady) defended, witness said that she was quite positive as to the identity of the coat. She complained to the police, who arrested defendant. At the police station accused said she would give witness the coat, though it was not hers.

Other witnesses having been examined as to the identity of the coat,

Constable Thomas Neary, who wore his right arm in a sling, and looked rather weak, said that the defendant when arrested denied the charge, and said that her aunt, who had since gone to Glasgow, had bought it for her.

Mr. Justice Pim—I hope you are feeling better, constable.

Constable Neary—Yes, my lord, I am.

Mr. Justice Pim—It is a pleasure to see you. You are a gallant man.

The jury found the prisoner guilty, and Mr. Justice Pim allowed her out on probation on her father's bail.

ATTACK ON AN HOSPITAL NURSE.

William Barnes, a rough-looking man with a broken nose and one arm, was charged with having on the 25th October, unlawfully and maliciously wounded Miss Mary Cooney, a nurse in the Mater Misericordiæ Hospital.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C. (prosecuting), said that the case was a most outrageous one. Two nurses were taking a walk along the canal bank at Phibsborough when the prisoner jostled them on the path. He tripped Miss Cooney and struck her in the back. She fell and the prisoner passed on. When Nurse Haslam went to Miss Cooney's assistance she found that she had been stabbed with a knife under the shoulder blade. Miss Cooney had never seen the man who stabbed her before, and he received no provocation. The case appeared to be one of natural wickedness.

Miss Mary Cooney gave evidence describing the attack that was made upon her, and stated that when she found she had been wounded she walked back with Nurse Haslam to the hospital. After stabbing her the prisoner stood and looked back at her.

Prisoner—Why did she not get me arrested there and then in the broad daylight?

Witness—I did not have any idea of making a row at all. I merely went back to the hospital and in the hospital someone said that he should be arrested.

Prisoner—There was nothing got on me whatever. I deny the charge.

Miss Haslam stated that she saw the prisoner try to trip her companion and heard a heavy blow on her back. Later she saw that Miss Cooney had a straight cut about four inches long on the left shoulder blade. When witness found her companion bleeding she said that the best thing to do was to return to the hospital and have the wound dressed. In witness's opinion the wound was probably inflicted by a sharp penknife.

Constable Eugene McCarthy, D.M.P., stated that he arrested the prisoner in a lodging house in Whitefriar street between 11 and 12 o'clock on the night of the 26th October. When arrested prisoner said—"I don't know what you are talking about—are they out of the 'Joy' or Jury's Hotel?"

Mr. Dudley White, K.C.—What was the "Joy?"

Witness—I suppose Mountjoy Prison. (Laughter.)

Mr. Justice Pim—And what would he mean by Jury's?

Mr. Dudley White, K.C.—Jury's Hotel, where the W.A.A.C.'s are. (Laughter.)

The prisoner when asked if he had anything to say, repeated that he knew nothing whatever about the case.

Mr. Justice Pim—That is the question the jury have to decide. A more outrageous thing I have never known—the man must have been mad or drunk to do such a thing.

The jury found the prisoner guilty.

Mr. Justice Pim said that the verdict was a very proper one. Never in his life had he seen a record such as the prisoner's—a whole page was not sufficient to enter up the convictions against him. He would be sentenced to eighteen months' hard labour.

GOVERNMENT LINEN STOLEN.

Patrick Carroll pleaded "not guilty" to an indictment charging him with the larceny of two pieces, containing 197 yards, of aeroplane linen, the property of His Majesty's Ministry of Munitions.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C.; Mr. Dudley White, K.C. (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor) prosecuted, and Mr. Sealy, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Gerald Byrne and Co.), defended.

Mr. Carrigan said that the accused was foreman of the store in which the linen was kept.

A witness named Barker, who had been a foreman in the employ of the National Shell Factory, Parkgate street, stated that the prisoner made him a present of a small quantity of linen. Witness told Carroll that if he had any linen for sale his sister-in-law, Mrs. Shanks, who kept a boarding house in Townsend street, would probably buy some.

Cross-examined by Mr. Sealy, the witness said that persons would have very little difficulty in getting into the bonded store at John's road, where the aeroplane linen was stored. He did not know that Carroll had no authority to make him a present of the small piece of linen.

Mrs. Shanks, 30 Townsend street, said that the accused came to her in May last, and introduced himself as a friend of Mr. Barker. He said that he had large quantities of linen for sale, and the witness eventually bought a piece containing about 100 yards, paying £6 for it.

In reply to Mr. Sealy, the witness said that she heard through her sister, Mrs. Barker, that there was some linen for sale. She had no suspicion of the transaction, as she thought that there was some sale of Government linen. The defendant drove up to her house on a hackney car with the bale.

Mr. Rogers, an official at the bonded stores, stated there was no deficiency in stock until the June stocktaking this year.

To Mr. Sealy—The defendant was employed as foreman for about 3½ years. He was considered an honest, hard-working man.

To Mr. Carrigan—So far as can be ascertained, June stock shows a shortage of 453 yards.

Mr. A. L. Doran, Assistant Manager at the John's road store, gave evidence of having missed two pieces of linen from a bale in the store, which appeared to have been tampered with.

Sergeant Byrne, D.M.P., who arrested the defendant, said that the latter, when identified by Mrs. Shanks, said—"I think I never saw the woman before." The prisoner also stated that all he knew about the linen was what Barker had.

An affidavit, sworn to by Mr. Christopher Cullen, Government stocktaker, who was not in court, testified to the defendant's good record as storekeeper.

Mr. L. Fitzgerald Orr also testified to the accused's good character.

Mr. Rogers, replying to Mr. Sealy, said the value of the linen was 2/4 per yard.

The jury found the prisoner guilty of feloniously receiving, and he was put back until to-day.

INCORPORATED LAW SOCIETY OF IRELAND.

THE ULSTER FARMERS' UNION.

SUCCESSFUL DEPUTATION TO LONDON.

The deputation to London from the Ulster Farmers' Union to confer with the Food Controller on the question of pork and potatoes, and with the Flax Control Board concerning flax, consisting of Major McCormack, Mr. D. Johnston, J.P.; Mr. R. Gregg, and Mr. George Barry, has returned after a most satisfactory mission. As already announced, it has succeeded in securing 10s. per stone increase in the price of flax, which, with the improved system of grading arranged, will probably amount to a gain of nearly 14s. per stone.

On the question of potatoes, the threatened "ring" in Belfast has been smashed; a free market for potatoes has been arranged within the United Kingdom; and exportation abroad of one-third of the surplus has been secured, while control has been stopped. A substantial increase has been gained in the price of pork, the exact amount of which will be made known in a few days, and the permit system has been so modified as to remove most of the objectionable inconveniences.

The Ulster Farmers' Union delegates were joined by those from the Scottish Farmers' Union and the National Farmers' Union of England, and had a long conference before the meeting with the Food Controller took place. The deputation reports that it was most graciously received by both the Food Control Department and the Flax Control Board, and that every possible assistance was given to it by Mr. Campbell, of the Irish Department of Agriculture.

BELFAST HARBOUR TRAFFIC.

NINE MONTHS' IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

The Belfast Harbour Commissioners have issued a return of the goods which have passed through the port during the nine months ending 30th September, and it contains many interesting facts about Belfast's trade. The coal imports have declined from 1,035,599 tons for the corresponding nine months last year to 977,281 tons for this year, indicating that the high price is leading to greater economy in the use of coal, while it also reflects the severe rationing and the dislocation caused by the railway strike. The importation of iron and steel plates, principally used in shipbuilding, has declined from 58,377 tons in 1918 to 47,595 tons in 1919; but, on the other hand, wrought iron and steel imported has increased from 39,569 tons to 47,746 tons, while iron and steel castings show an increase of 8,723 tons compared with 6,751 tons for the corresponding period last year.

The importation of flax has increased from 4,784 tons to 7,427 tons, of which 5,140 tons this year was foreign flax, as against 3,000 tons of foreign last year. The export of flax has also increased from 559 tons in 1918 to 1,085 tons in the present year. Flax seed imported has increased from 4,450 tons to 7,105 tons.

Unmanufactured tobacco imported increased from 2,765 tons to 6,854 tons, while manufactured tobacco exported increased from 2,480 tons to 3,122 tons; and unmanufactured tobacco exported increased from 184 tons to 1,239 tons, so that evidently there is an increased consumption. Whiskey imports—"Pussyfoot" will be sorry to learn—increased from 419 tons to 1,006 tons, of which 378 tons were foreign, probably from America, but the export of whiskey decreased from 18,169 tons to 17,838 tons.

THE GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

(CONTRIBUTED.)

The last fifty years have seen the rise and fall of many worthy and well-intentioned philanthropic enterprises. Among the fittest that have survived and flourished, the Girls' Friendly Society must be reckoned as one which has achieved a fine record of moral and spiritual effort. Founded in England in 1875, it was, through the instrumentality of the present Earl of Meath and the late Countess of Meath, introduced into Ireland in 1877. Judged by the widespread and rapid growth of the organisation, the Girls' Friendly Society has already proved that it met a real need, and that the right people are working it. It has spread throughout the English-speaking world, and beyond it. In the great overseas Dominions, in India, America, South America, and on the Continent links of this chain of friendship are to be found.

The Girls' Friendly Society is in no sense an antagonist of the great sister association—the Young Women's Christian Association. Like its friendly rival, membership is not confined to any one religious denomination; but the responsible and guiding positions in the Society must, according to its rules, be confined to members of the Church of Ireland or Churches in communion therewith. It was thought well by its wise founders thus to attach it to one definite religious body. It has become a familiar parochial organisation, and wherever circumstances have permitted its full aims to be carried out, a wholesome atmosphere of friendly sociability has been created to meet the gregarious instincts which all normal young people possess. Its object is:—"To unite for the glory of God, in one fellowship of prayer and service, the girls and women of the Empire, to uphold purity in thought, word and deed."

This great society is practically self-supporting, and has no need, as a rule, to appeal to the public. It is not surprising, however, that some of the Society's more directly philanthropic efforts should, like all similar institutions, have felt the crippling effects of the war.

A great rally of friends and supporters of the society is taking place this week in the Dublin Mansion House with the object of relieving the strain which has been experienced by the Society's lodges and Home of Rest. These constitute an altogether admirable branch of the Society's practical activities. Lodges have been established in the towns where girls, compelled to live away from their own homes, may live at a reasonable cost, and in safe and wholesome surroundings. Co-ordinated with these is the Girls' Friendly Society's Home of Rest, on Carlingford Lough, where many hundreds of working girls spend their short holiday, and return to their daily toil refreshed and re-invigorated in body and mind. To mention these excellent institutions alone is to show how the Girls' Friendly Society has already justified its existence.

THE LATE MR. P. B. BERNARD.

At a special Service held in St. Mary's Cathedral, Tuam, on Saturday afternoon last, the Bishop of Tuam (Bishop-Elect of Meath) dedicated some beautiful gifts in memory of the late Mr. P. B. Bernard. The memorials consist of a handsome stained-glass window of five lights and a mural tablet of marble bearing the following inscription:—"To beautify this House of God and in memory of Percy Brodrick Bernard, D.L., of Castle Hacket, Co. Galway. Born, 1844. Died, 1912. His family, relations, and friends have caused the five upper windows in the west end of this Cathedral to be filled with stained glass, 1919. 'After he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep,' Acts xiii., 36."

The subject of the window is the Transfiguration, and the work has been artistically carried out with a remarkable richness and softness of colouring. The figures are life-like, but reverently conceived, and the whole forms a fitting addition to an already beautiful building. After the tablet had been unveiled by the Earl of Bandon, cousin of the late Mr. Bernard, the Bishop gave a short address. The esteem in which Mr. Bernard was held was evidenced by the fact that people of all creeds gladly subscribed towards the cost of these memorials.

COOTEHILL PRESBYTERIAN WAR MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Unveiling of Memorial Tablet by Lord Farnham.

Special Memorial Services were held in Cootehill Presbyterian Church on Sunday last by the Rev. Dr. McKee, late of 9th Royal Irish Rifles, who presided at the Morning and Evening Services.

At the Morning Service a handsome white Sicilian marble tablet, erected by the congregation to the memory of the men connected with the church who fell and who served in the great war, was unveiled by Colonel Lord Farnham, D.S.O., late Commanding Officer 2nd Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers. The congregation stood while his lordship read the tablet inscription, including the twenty-two names engraved thereon. Of these, five made the supreme sacrifice, two won the Military Cross, two were mentioned in despatches, and three were awarded the Military Medal.

The Rev. W. M. Heury, M.A., on behalf of the congregation, thanked Lord Farnham for his kindness in being present. He also referred in appreciative terms to the presence of the Countess of Dartrey.

The praise at both Services was led by the choir, under the leadership of Miss Stoddart, who presided at the organ. The collections were in aid of the Belfast War Memorial Hostels Fund.

Negotiations in Paris for the revision of the Treaties of 1839, which were interrupted by the departure of the Belgian delegates for Brussels, will be reopened at the beginning of next week, says a Hague telegram.

THE ACTOR.

One minute interviews with men who use the Gillette.

IN the choice of a razor the Actor has to exercise more than ordinary care.

The shaving operation in his case must be safe, clean and in the highest degree efficient.

It must keep the skin in a thoroughly healthy condition.

Because it gives that much-desired clean, quick and velvet smooth shave and is the one razor that has given me a really satisfactory shaving service, the Gillette is the only razor I now use.

Long usage has made the Gillette a factor of prime importance in relation to my health, personal habits and appearance.

Being easily and immediately adjustable, the Gillette is not dependent upon the condition of the climate, the beard or the skin.

ARCHITECTURAL ASSOCIATION OF IRELAND.

The opening meeting of the 1919-20 session of the Architectural Association of Ireland was held at the offices of the Association, 15 South Frederick lane, Dublin, on Tuesday night, Mr. G. F. Beckett, President, presiding.

The President, in the course of his address, urged that those interested in the erection and ornamentation of buildings should co-operate more closely with one another, and get into closer touch with the public. In this connection he suggested that a scheme should be formulated for the erection of a central building which various societies could utilise, each having separate rooms, and the use of common meeting places. The Committee had decided to hold a competition for suggestive designs in connection with this proposal.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON AND THE WORLD'S CULTURE.

The Charity Commissioners, on giving their decision consenting to the sale of land at Stratford-on-Avon for the erection of an aluminium factory, sent a letter to the Stratford Corporation explaining that in their view anticipations of possible loss to the world's culture by the erection of such a factory were not such as they could admit as material. The suggestion that this would be the first step in the industrialisation of Stratford was a hypothetical objection, and, therefore, insufficient to justify refusal to approve of the sale.

NEWMARKET MEETING—YESTERDAY.

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

ONE-SIDED VICTORY OF BRIGAND.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

NEWMARKET, Wednesday Night.

Fortunately for visitors to Newmarket to-day—and they were a very numerous body, which compared favourably with the huge crowd which put the arrangements out of gear on the Cesarewitch afternoon—the weather, which had been very bad during the morning, underwent a change in time to enable the spectators to witness the racing in comparative comfort. The race for the Cambridgeshire was won in apparently one-sided fashion by Brigand, whose public credentials to entitle him to serious consideration for such an important handicap appeared to be of the flimsiest character. There were several changes in the market during the preliminary wagering to-day, and at one period five of the candidates figured at the same price, Alasnam eventually settling down best in demand. This Cesarewitch disappointment again ran well. But he cannot be so good as his connections imagine him to be, as the two top-weights succeeded in giving him the weight they were asked to do, and would probably do so again. As regards the race, it will be sufficient to state that Brigand, who left the gate in a flash, quickly established a commanding advantage, and, after being nearly ten lengths in front at the Bushes, he eventually passed the winning post in solitary state, an obviously tired horse, it is true, but not more so than were the others. My Dear left her Duke of York Stakes form far behind, and Diadem, in the circumstances, ran, perhaps, the best race of her brilliant career, bearing the distance in mind. Details:—

Place betting in proportion.

THE RACE.

From an apparently level start Brigand came on in advance of Tetrarchia, Alasnam, Glanmerin, My Dear, Diadem, Sir Berkeley, Clarion, and Golden Fleece, who were succeeded by Scatwell, Lady Earn, Zinovia, and Roideur. When half the journey had been completed Brigand was still out clear of his field, being attended by Alasnam, Sir Berkeley, My Dear, Diadem, and Golden Fleece. In the dip Alasnam was beaten, and Brigand went on to win easily by half-a-dozen lengths; three-quarters of a length divided second and third. Alasnam was placed fourth, Sir Berkeley fifth, Clarion sixth, Scatwell seventh, Lady Earn eighth, Viceroy ninth, Glanmerin tenth, Dromio eleventh, Royal Bucks twelfth, Zinovia thirteenth, Golden Fleece fourteenth, and Mintleaf last.

CHANTICLEER'S NOTES.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

NEWMARKET, Wednesday Night.

The race for the Cambridgeshire this afternoon will not be soon forgotten by those who were privileged to witness it. That an animal with such credentials that Brigand could boast of should run clean away from a class field is astounding. My selections for to-morrow are as follow:—Jockey Club Cup—Queen's Square. A Selling Plate—Athdara; if absent, Petrusen. Richmond Nursery—Lucentio or Fair Helen. Ditch Mile Handicap—Sally Crag. Dewhurst Plate—Prince Galahad. Two-Year-Old Plate—L'Espion or Chasseuse. Apprentices' Plate—Freesia.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Major Harrington-Swann has sold Windgate (aged), by Wainsgate, out of Skylight II., to go to England.

It is understood that when W. Waugh takes up his residence at Newmarket next month, the Duke of Portland will send him eight yearlings to train for next season.

NEWMARKET BLOODSTOCK SALES—YESTERDAY.

The Newmarket bloodstock sales were further advanced yesterday morning, and with much more success than accompanied the proceedings on Tuesday. Several colts were withdrawn, and others failed to make the reserve, but, on the whole, business was good. Principal prices and purchasers' names:—

CROWN LANDS IN IRELAND.

The ninety-seventh report of the Commissioners of Woods, Forest, and Land Revenues, issued as a White Paper, shows that the Crown property in Ireland consists principally of quit and other unimprovable rents of mixed amount, issuing out of private lands. The area of lands, the property of the Crown, is about 910 acres, of which 630 acres are subject to common rights. Certain parts of the foreshore of the sea are also Crown property. The total collection during the year ended 31st March, 1919, was made up as follows:—Quit and other unimprovable rents, including acquittance fees, £14,360 14s. 5d.; rents of lands, etc., £1,288 2s. 5d.; mine rents and royalties (one-half of which is carried to capital), £156 6s. 9d.; total, £15,805 3s. 7d. The total expenditure was £4,808 16s. 1d.

GOLF.

£100 CHALLENGE MATCH.

The first half of the 72 holes challenge match between Harry Fernie (Northumberland) and A. Kay (Newcastle) against F. Wingate (Ravensworth) and R. May (Benton Park) took place at Gosforth yesterday. Fernie and Kay led by five holes at the end of the first round, and they finished the day's play leading by six holes. The second half of the match will be played at Ravensworth, Gateshead, on Wednesday next.

PORTARLINGTON.—The Elvery prizes were won on Saturday last by Mr. J. H. Daly; W. H. M. Cobbe and W. J. O'Grady were second and third.

KINGSTOWN.—Next Saturday—Monthly medal, bogey.

KINGSTOWN (Ladies).—Challenge cup, to-day.—Correct draw:—Mrs. Welland v. Miss Cowl (match). Byes—Mrs. Mallett v. Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. Ward v. Miss Gillespie, Mrs. Jackson v. Mrs. Keats, Mrs. Hall v. GREYSTONES.—The second victory competition, in aid of Y.M.C.A. Bureau for Disabled Ex-Service Men, was played on Saturday. Result:—Captain H. F. C. Hobbs (3), 71; Miss B. G. Stanley (19), 79; Miss M. FitzGibbon (11), 80.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

MILK VENDOR FINED.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Swifte, Joseph Swifte, Briar Lodge, Crumlin, was summoned by the Dublin Corporation for refusing to sell for analysis to Mr. Tutty, Food Inspector, a half pint of new milk. A fine of 40/- was imposed.

OVERCHARGING FOR SALMON.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, Patrick Ryan, 110 Thomas street, and John Ryan, his assistant, were summoned by the Food Control Committee for having sold a tin of "Bull's Eye" salmon for 10d., being 1d. over the control price. Mrs. O'Neill, to whom the tin was sold, said that when she complained to Mr. Ryan about the overcharging he became highly abusive. A fine of 10/- was imposed. Similar fines were imposed in the cases of Ellen Dowling, 144 Thomas street, and W. C. Crimmins, 27 James' street, who charged 1/10 for a tin of salmon, for which the control price was 1/8.

LACK OF FACILITIES FOR LIVE-STOCK EXPORT.—On the eve of another market day, the congestion of live-stock awaiting shipment from Dublin port was regarded in a very grave light by regular exporters and their agents at the Liffey sides yesterday. A case in point was mentioned where a consignment of sheep and lambs had failed since yesterday week to get room aboard boats leaving the North Wall for a Lancashire port, and the agent for these animals said that they had so often been driven to and from the port that their value had deteriorated more than 50 per cent., apart from the fatigue caused to the sheep and lambs forming the held up contingent.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND.—On Monday the Society visited the library of the College of Science, Upper Merrion street, Dublin. At the meeting held Mr. E. R. McC. Dix, M.R.I.A., presided, and the Librarian, Mr. John Condon, gave an account of the collection. A paper was also read by Mr. J. Dennan on "Early Dublin Directories," illustrated by a chart. On the motion of Mr. Henry Dixon, seconded by the Rev. T. W. O'Ryan (Golden Bridge), a vote of thanks was passed to both gentlemen.

MANSION HOUSE CONCERT.—A concert was held under the auspices of the Discharged and Demobilised Sailors' and Soldiers' Protection Association in the Mansion House last evening. A feature of the concert was the presence of the band of the 2nd Battalion Worcestershire Regiment, under the conductorship of Mr. Swain, L.R.A.M., who supplied a number of popular airs, which met with keen appreciation. The programme was a lengthy one, but it delighted all present, and encores were frequent. Vocally and instrumentally, the concert proved a splendid success, the Round Room being crowded.

CHARGE OF ISSUING FALSE CHEQUES.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Swifte, James Moore, alias O'Connor, was returned for trial to the City Commission, on a charge brought by Detective Sergeant Mannion and Constable M'Geer, with having obtained by false pretences, from Mr. A. Newman, merchant tailor, Middle Abbey street, an overcoat value £8 8/-, by issuing a cheque for £13 in the name of Jas. O'Connor, which was returned from the Munster and Leinster Bank, marked "No account." Mr. Newman, in his deposition, stated that the accused ordered an overcoat, in payment of which he gave a cheque in the name of James O'Connor, for £13. He asked for the change, the price of the coat being £8 8/-. Witness gave him a cheque for £4 12/-, which was cashed next day, but the cheque for £13 was returned next day. Miss Lily Bremson stated that the accused came to the store of Samuel Ordman, general dealer, Francis street, and arranged for the purchase of £21 10/- worth of bottles. He presented a blank cheque, which he asked her to fill for £23 10/-, and stated that he could not fill the cheque, as he had a sore finger. He said that he came from Grange, Co. Wicklow. She did not complete the filling of the cheque. Mr. John Morrissey, publican, Cork street, stated that he gave the accused a blank cheque on the representation made by him that he was a publican and farmer in Grangecon.

The very small allotments of BACON and HAMS, grade 1, are eagerly taken, and there is more inquiry for out of condition goods; Irish 190/6, Canadian and American 187/-. LARD—Irish 198/6, American ditto.

LIVERPOOL, Wednesday.—Chicago cable advices showed a further advance in both live hogs and products, but in view of the Government control here had no influence on this market. A good inquiry continues to be experienced for first grades of BACON, but, with the small deliveries from the quays and limited allotments by the Ministry of desirable lots, these descriptions are in small compass, especially Wiltshires and Cumberland, which are mostly in demand. Lower grades remain plentiful, and proved for sale, while buyers operate cautiously, and take but a moderate quantity of the best-conditioned parcels at the various allowance made by the Claims Committee. HAMS move fairly for anything of passable quality, but inferior descriptions and all shoulders attract little attention. LARD on the spot in but moderate request, with the offerings fully equal to all requirements. CHEESE steady, and goes fairly into consumption at 1/3½ per lb. delivered to retailers, but offerings are on a liberal scale. BUTTER scarce and wanted, the recent allocation having been practically distributed. EGGS quietly steady, with fresh Irish unchanged at 45/- to 48/-, cold store 40/-, Canadian 33/- to 35/-, and American 33/- to 35/- per 120.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE AND FRUIT, Wednesday.—A fair mid-week market of vegetables, which easily cleared at the following rates:—York cabbage, 40/- to 61/- per load; cauliflower, 2/6 to 3/6 per doz.; kale, 3d. to 8d. per bunch; carrots, 1/6 to 1/9 per dozen bunches; parsnips, 2/- to 2/8 per ditto; parsley, 6d. to 1/- per float; thyme, 3d. to 9d. per doz. bunches; sprouts, 3/- to 3/9 per float. Apples made 2/6 to 3/6 per tray, and from 13/- to 38/- per barrel; also 30/- to 80/- per hamper.

DUBLIN FISH, Wednesday.—Supplies of fish this morning were fair, except herrings, which were in particularly heavy quantity, namely, 550 packages. Lobsters numbered 4 chests, and mackerel 21 packages. From local and country hook boats and trawlers offerings were only nominal. Sales ran:—Lobsters, best, 20/- to 30/-; seconds, 10/- to 16/-; small, etc., 8/- to 10/- per 13; large soles, 30/- to 45/-; medium, 15/- to 20/-; slips, 6/- to 8/- per 2 pairs; plaice, 4/- to 6/- per 4, and medium 4/- to 5/- per 8; plaice made 20/- to 90/- per half box; cod fish, 30/- to 50/- per 10/- to 25/- per ditto. Herrings, per box, averaged 12/6, and mackerel 25/-.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Wednesday.—Supply liberal; demand good. Soles and slips, 2/3 to 3/6; red mullet, 2/6; lobsters, 2/6; turbot, 1/-; brill, 11d.; cured haddocks, 10d. per lb.; live eels, 45/-; dead, 30/- per draft; dories, 7/-; plaice, 11/- to 13/-; halibut, 16/-; lemon soles, 15/- to 17/-; whitches, 10/- to 12/-; mackerel, 7/-; whiting, 6/-; live cod, 9/- to 11/-; dead, 7/-; gurnet, 4/-; hake, 14/-; haddocks, 4/6; skate, 7/- to 9/-; roker, 10/- to 11/-; monkfish, 6/6 per stone.

GRIMSBY FISH, Wednesday.—A fair supply was landed by North Sea and two Iceland trawlers. Very keen demand. Prices:—Soles, 2/3; turbot, 11d.; brills, 11d. per lb.; plaice, 13/-; medium, 11/-; lemon soles, 22/-; whitings, 6/6; live ling, 9/-; dead, 8/6; live cod, 15/-; dead, 13/-; small haddocks, 7/-; kit, 8/6; gibbed, 10/-; live dabs, 11/-; dead, 9/-; roker, 12/6, and Iceland plaice 10/- per stone.

BUTTER.—CORK, Wednesday.—Firsts, 270/-; fresh butter, 280/- per cwt.

PRODUCE.—LONDON, Wednesday.—SUGAR—Free parcels quiet, steady; Trinidad syrups sold 70/-. HONEY quiet. COFFEE—Spot steady; Mansion grades quiet; futures slow. COCOA steady. TEA active at firm prices. PEPPER steady support. RICE fair inquiry. BEANS slow. TAPIOCA dull. JUTE firm, quiet. HEMP quiet, unaltered. SHELLAC slow, steady. COPRA firm. RUBBER steady, quiet; crepe and sheet spot 2/4½ per lb. TALLOW—Sales occasionally 1/- dearer. LINSEED OIL unchanged. TURPENTINE—Spot 124/-.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, Wednesday.—Market remains unaltered.

MISCELLANEOUS. — LIVERPOOL COTTON (Second Report), Wednesday.—American market is active and firm; quotations advanced 34 points. Brazilian quotations are advanced 34 points. East Indian continues in good demand at irregular rates; quotations raised 25 points. Egyptian continues in good demand; quotations advanced 50 points. Sales 15,000 bales; imports nil. Market is steady.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Wednesday.—Sales 15,000 bales, imports nil. American market active, firm; advanced 34 points. Brazilian advanced 34 points. East Indian continues good demand at irregular rates; raised 25 points. Egyptian continues in good demand; advanced 50 points. October 25.30d., January 23.91d., March 22.13d., April 21.90d., May 21.65d., June 21.45d. Market closes unsettled.

WOOL.—LEICESTER, Wednesday.—Quotations for wool yarn are well maintained, and there is a good demand for better class qualities, but the coarser kinds are not moving quite so freely. The scarcity of yarns continues, and a number of machines employed in making underwear are stopped. Although at the moment the volume of trade is heavy, there is a tendency that in a short time there may be a lull. Warehouses are full and the stocks in the country are being rapidly made up, and the future depends on the progress of the trade of the country.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN firmer, a good demand causing reserve on the part of sellers; cash 20/- and forward 15/- dearer against Tuesday's closing rates. Cash £276 15/- to £277, three months £277 15/- to £278, settlement price £276 15/-. Sales 500 tons; cash done up to £276 10/- and three months to £277 to £276 10/- and later £277 10/-. COPPER met with steady support, while up 20/- as compared with Tuesday's final rates. Standard cash quoted £100 to £100 5/-, three months £100 15/- to £101, settlement price £100. Sales 600 tons, chiefly three months, at £100 10/-, £100 5/-, and £100 15/-; electros £114 to £118. LEAD maintained. 700 tons soft foreign sold January-February £50 15/- to £50 17/6. ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.

The Company has been formed for the purpose of carrying on the business of Marine Salvage Contractors, Wreck Removers, Ship and Tug Owners, and Towage Contractors, and for the other purposes set forth in the Memorandum of Association of the Company.

GENERAL POLICY.

The Company propose to undertake, inter alia:—

(1) Commercial towage to any part of the world, including heavy work, such as the towage of floating dry docks.
(2) Salvage of stranded and sunken vessels, and their cargoes.
(3) Towage of wrecks or disabled ships to places of safety.

Most of this work has hitherto been in foreign hands, and is believed to have yielded extremely profitable results.

Ocean towage work is well known to yield remunerative results, and a steady and regular revenue.

Present facilities for towage in all parts of the world are extremely limited, and in the Directors' opinion there is a real need for increased plant.

Salvage work, of course, involves an element of risk, but even a moderate percentage of successes secures a large profit.

Statistics publishd by the Admiralty show that nearly 2,500 British vessels were lost through enemy action during the war, and that about 15,000,000 tons of merchant shipping of all nationalities were lost during the same period from all causes (war and marine). The Company will, therefore, in addition to current marine casualties, have a very large field for its operations, and be able to choose those contracts which present the greatest likelihood of success and profit.

PURCHASE OF THE SHARES OF THE OCEAN SALVAGE COMPANY, LIMITED.

The Company has entered into agreements to acquire the whole of the share capital of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, incorporated in May, 1917.

This Company has an authorised capital of £100,000, the whole of which is now issued, and its assets include three salvage steamers and two first-class tug boats, in full working order, fitted with pumps and salvage gear, and a quantity of valuable salvage plant taken over from the Admiralty.

The value of the two salvage steamers, La Nina and La Valette, with gear and stores, as fixed by Newman, Mumford, Lloyd's Surveyor at Constantinople, is £150,000, and that of the Zoraide, as fixed by Messrs. Flannery, Baggallay, and Johnson, Limited, and C. W. Kellock and Co., is £20,000, making, with the cost price of the tugs, an aggregate amount of £178,200, and the estimated value of the other assets represented by cash insurances, prepaid book debts, and stores amounts to about £32,000, after deduction of liabilities, making in all approximately £210,000, to which must be added profits to accrue from salvage contracts recently completed, and now in the course of execution.

The purchase consideration for the shares of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, has been fixed at £2 10/- per share, carrying all profits, as from 1st September, 1918, payable as to £1 thereof in fully paid shares of this Company, and the balance in cash. The Company also grants to the shareholders of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, an option until 31st December, 1920, to subscribe at Twenty-five Shillings per share for one share of this Company in respect of each share of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, sold by them.

PAST HISTORY OF THE OCEAN SALVAGE COMPANY, LIMITED.

The steamers of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, were under Admiralty control until April-May, 1919.

Up to the present time their steamers have salved, or taken part in salving, 25 vessels, including the salvage of the armoured cruiser, H.M.S. King Alfred, in Belfast Lough, and the s.s. River Clyde at Cape Helles, Gallipoli peninsula.

Though the Company was working at the comparatively low Admiralty rates, its audited profit and loss account, from May, 1917, to 31st August, 1918, showed profits, which were sufficient to pay a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, less tax, on the amount of its capital of £62,600, calculated from dates of payment, after writing off all the preliminary expenses, and a sum of £6,473 3/4 for depreciation.

PURCHASE OF THE SHARE OF VICKERS PONTOONS, LIMITED.

The Company has also entered into agreements to acquire all the shares of Vickers Pontoons, Limited, a Company having a capital of £90,000, including cash assets of about £4,000.

The purchase consideration has been fixed at £1 per share, payable on the basis of six shillings and eight pence in cash, and thirteen shillings and fourpence in fully paid shares of £1 each of this Company.

A satisfactory report as to the validity of the patent covering the Vickers' Pontoon has been made by Mr. James Hunter Gray, K.C., and Messrs. Haseltine, Lake, and Co., Chartered Patent Agents.

Messrs. Clark and Stanfield, the naval architects, have reported favourably on the technical value of these pontoons, and the Directors are of opinion that they are a suitable plant for raising ships which have been sunk in deep water, and in competent and experienced hands should give satisfactory results, and overcome the difficulties hitherto encountered in raising vessels in other than comparatively shallow waters.

AGREEMENT WITH COMMANDER BORISSOW.

The Directors of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, have been fortunate in securing for five years the services of Commander Borissow as General Manager and Agent, an officer of great experience in salvage operations.

He was the chief salvage officer of the British Admiralty for the whole of the Mediterranean throughout the war.

CASH AVAILABLE FOR THE PURPOSES OF THE COMPANY.

After paying the respective cash purchase considerations, and all preliminary expenses of the Company, and the expenses of this issue, there remains a sum in cash of about £400,000, plus the cash assets of the Ocean Salvage Company, Limited, and Vickers' Pontoons, Limited, available for the general purposes of this Company.

The Directors propose to purchase, amongst other necessary gear, additional salvage steamers, Vickers' patent pontoons, and such other plant, as in their opinion will be most advantageous, leaving in hand a sufficient amount of cash for working capital.

The Company has granted an option until the 31st December, 1922, on 125,000 of its unissued shares at twenty-five shillings per share to the Saint Denis Corporation, Limited, in consideration of services rendered in connection with the flotation of the Company.

The preliminary expenses, including registration fees, cost of reports, brokers' fees, printing, distributing, and advertising the Prospectus, costs and duties on transfer to the Company, legal and other expenses, down to allotment, except stamps on allotment letters, underwriting commission, and brokerage, as mentioned herein, are estimated at £15,000.

The minimum subscription upon which the Directors may proceed to allotment is £7, but the whole 640,000 Shares, having been undewritten at a commission of 5 per cent. and 1 per cent. over-riding commission, the Company will proceed to allotment immediately on the closing of the Subscription List.

A brokerage of threepence per share will be paid by the Company on shares applied for and allotted on applications bearing the stamp of bankers and stockbrokers.

Copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, and of the contracts, the Report by Messrs. Clark and Stanfield as to the Vickers Pontoons, counsels' and Patent Agents' opinion thereon, can be inspected at the offices of the Solicitors of the Company at any time during business hours while the Subscription List remains open.

Application will be made in due course to the Committee of the London and Cardiff Stock Exchanges for an official quotation for the shares of the company.

Applications for shares should be made on the form accompanying the Prospectus, and should be sent to the Company's Bankers, Lloyds Bank, Limited, Lombard street, E.C. 3, or Branches, together with the amount payable on application.

When no allotment is made the deposit paid on application will be returned in full.

Where the number of shares allotted is less than the amount applied for, the balance of the deposit will be applied towards the amount due on allotment and the final instalment, any balance remaining will be returned.

Interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum will be charged on all instalments not paid at their due date.

Failure to pay when due any instalment on the shares allotted will render previous payments and the shares liable to forfeiture.

A copy of the Memorandum of Association of the Company is printed in the fold of the Prospectus, and forms part thereof.

Full Prospectus (upon the terms of which alone applications will be received) and forms of application for shares can be obtained from the Bankers, the Brokers, and at the offices of the Company.

Dated 30th October, 1919.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

TENDENCY STILL REACTIONARY, BUT COTTONS GOOD.

There was a good business current on 'Change yesterday with more evidence of profit-taking in some recent buoyant specialities. This phase was particularly noticeable in Marconi Ord., Dunlop Rubber, Oil, and Tobacco shares, but no liberties were taken with prices so the easier market tendency may ultimately tend to consolidate prices. The Funds show slight irregular changes, with War Loan 5 p.c. rather disappointing in tone. Banks closed firm. Among Brewery shares Guinness were less firm. Steam closed firm, with Dundalks up to 20, thus more than materialising yesterday's nominal strength. Marconi Ord. shares fell back a little further, but subsidiaries, after being dull, closed firm. Home Rails were weaker, but Dublin Trams were in request. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were rather weaker on realisation sales, which carried the price 5s. lower. Textiles were again realised, with Spinners freely sold. English Sewing Cotton Ord. were a strong spot. Oils and Tobaccos were weaker generally on profit-taking.

In the Funds, War Loan 3½ p.c. rose ¼ to 100⅝, but ditto 5 p.c. fell ¼ to 92⅝ x.d. India 3½ p.c. eased ⅛ to 63⅝, but the 3 p.c. rose 1/16 to 53 1/16.

The only change in Banks was a rise of 1/16 to 7 1/16 in Munster and Leinsters. Bank Stock repeated 220, Nationals 19⅝, Provincial Old 26, and Royals 12.

Dealing in Breweries was confined to Guinness issues. The Ord. closed ¼ lower at 35½, ⅝, and the Pref. repeated 11¼. Dublin Distillers Ord. were again called 44s., 45s.

In Steam, City of Dublin Stock was unaltered at 272, 274 nominally. Dundalks rose no less than 3 to 20, but as these shares closed 18½ to 21 nominally the previous day the movement belongs more to the past than the present.

Among Marconi Shares the Ord. fell 2s. 6d. to 130s. Americans were busy at 35s., 34s. 9d., 35s., and Canadians, after falling 6d. to 16s. 9d., closed at 17s. Spanish Trust repeated 14s.

Home Rails Ord. turned weaker. Dublin and South-Eastern fell ¼ to 23⅞. Great Northern 1 to 83, and Great Southern and Western ⅜ to 69½. Among pre-Ord. issues Great Northern Debs. rose 1½ to 74½, and Midland Great Western 4 p.c. Debs. 1 to 65. Others show no alteration.

In Tramways Dublin United issues were bid for. The Ord. closed 1/16 better at 7½ 9/16, and the Pref. were ineffectually bid for at 10 1/16, or 1/16 over last marking.

Among Dunlops, Dunlop Rubber Ord. opened 1/16 lower at 9 1/16, and later fell to 9⅜. Parent Tyre Deferred recovered 1s. 6d. to 69s. bid, and the Pref. rose 1½d. to 15s. 9d.

In Bakery shares the best bid for Johnston Ord. was 5½, against 6½ last price, and the Pref. repeated 95s.

As regards Drapery shares, Henry Streets fell 3d. to 19s. 9d., and Pim Bros. repeated 7½. Crowe Wilson Pref. were on sale at last price, 4½, and Ferrier Pollock Pref. at 87s. 6d., but did not change hands.

Among Manufacturing shares, Textiles were nearly all weaker on sales to secure profits. Bleachers fell 3d. to 35s. 3d., Calicos 4½d. to 24s. 7½d., Coats 1/16 to 9 1/16, and Spinners 1s. 6d. to 73s. 9d., 73s. 6d., 73s. 3d. Cotton Ord. were exceptionally good, and rose a further 1s. to 97s. 6d. Coats' Pref. remain at 11. Hely's Pref. at 19s. 3d., and Lever Bros.' 6½ p.c. Pref. at 20s. 6d.

In Trading shares Tedcastle McCormick Debs. realised 9½, and Merchants' Warehousing rose 2s. 6d. to 37s. 6d.

As regards other business done, Imperial Tobacco fell 6d. to 67s. 10½d. Mexican Eagle 1/16 to 11⅜ 7/16, and Shells 1/16 to 10, after being 10 1/16. Kern River Oils rose 6d. to 34s. 6d.

The following prices obtained after hours:—Dunlop Rubber, 9½; American Dunlops, 39s.; Shells, 10; and "Slubbers," 10s. 6d.

TAMER STOCK MARKETS.
FREE REALISING IN MANY. GROUPS PRODUCES VARYING RESULTS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Once again, and in spite of the pre-occupation of some sections of the public with the national financial situation, the Stock Exchange had a full and busy day. There was less to show in the shape of enhanced prices for the activity, for throughout profit-taking was in progress. In some instances raies were so well absorbed that they did not stem the advance; in others they were just about balanced by the buying, and in others still they outweighed it. Shipping Shares were strong, Oils closed doubtfully, after active dealings; Rubbers suffered a little from realisations, Mines looked all the better for them, and Industrials showed mixed results. Speaking broadly, the tone was more assured at the end than at the start, which was distinctly coloured by apprehensions about the financial outlook; but finally the only direct traces of this feeling were to be found in the War Loan and Consols. Home Rails picked up, as the Government and trade unions are reported to be moving towards an understanding. Trunks were heavy, Argentine Rails made no great headway, and the Foreign Bond Market was dull, with French, Russians, Chinese, and Peruvians particularly so.

LONDON STOCKS HESITATING.
SPECULATIVE DEPARTMENTS QUIETER.

There was not a great deal of business on the Stock Exchange during yesterday's session, and the general appearance of markets was narrowly irregular. Underlying conditions were also inclined to be hesitating, and, though efforts were made to infuse fresh energy into some specialities, they only met with very partial success. The big Budget deficit was still an overshadowing influence, and rumours were current that the Treasury might bring pressure to bear upon the banks to restrict financial facilities for speculation, the latter being regarded apparently with disfavour in official quarters in view of the existing conditions of the national finances. Gilt-edged issues were flabby. War Fives flattened rather sharply, closing 1/16 down at 92 5/16. The 4½ p.c. and 3½ p.c. Loans did not vary. Victory Bonds drooped to 84½ and the Funding Loan to 77¼. Miscellaneous gilt-edged issues were inclined to droop in places with the leaders in this department, but no acute weakness developed. Bank of England Stock met support around 192. New Zealand Fours were firm and rather over 85, but the rest of the Colonial group was quiet and spotty. Sudan Loan scrip held around 2½ prem., but the New South Wales scrip was offered, and closed at a discount.

Changes.—Rise—4 p.c. War Loan ¼ to 101. Falls—Consols, ½ to 51¼; 5 p.c. War Loan, 1/16 to 92 5/16.

FRENCH BONDS DECLINE.—Among Foreign securities, French Loans developed rather pronounced weakness in sympathy with the Paris exchange. The Fives fell nearly a point to 67½. Russians were heavy in tone, but concluded without net loss. Among Far Eastern Bonds, several Chinese descriptions were marked back 1, and Japanese Fives, at 84, were also a point weaker. There was only a moderate business among South Americans. Peruvians were again moderately realised to secure profits. Argentine and Brazilian issues lacked stability.

Changes.—Falls—Chinese Fives (1896), 1 to 87; do. 4½ p.c., 1 to 74½; do. 5 p.c. (1912), 1 to 76; French Loan, ½ to 67½; Greek Fives, 1 to 63; Japan New Fives, 1 to 84; Peruvian Pref., ½ to 33½.

RAILS QUIET.—The Home Railway Market was quiet and checkered, but the Trade Stocks displayed a firmness here and there, attention, as usual, centring mainly on this group. North-Westerns, finishing under best, were ½ better at 88, while Great Western, at 84½, and Midland Deferred at 53½, were each ½ to the good. Scotch Stocks were quiet and unchanged. Canadian Pacifics were back a dollar to 177 on New York advices, but Grand Trunks displayed a fair degree of firmness, though, on balance, the only quotable gain was one of ¼ in the Guaranteed Fours at 59. Mexican Rails remained heavy in tone. Argentine Rails made a good start, stimulated by another good batch of weekly traffics. Finally prices turned irregular on profit-taking, and left off with irregular variations of ¼ to ½. United of Havana, at 86, were a point to the good.

Changes.—Rises—Chatham, ⅛ to 10⅜; Great Northern Deferred, ½ to 35¼; Great Western, ½ to 84½; London and N.W., ½ to 88; Midland Deferred, 1 to 53½; Grand Trunk Guar., ¼ to 59; Central Argentine Ord., ½ to 68⅞; United of Havana, 1 to 86. Falls—South Eastern Deferred, ½ to 34½; Canadian Pacific, 1 to 177; Antofagasta Deferred, 1 to 129½; Buenos Ayres Great Southern, ½ to 85; Mexican 1st Pref., 1 to 53.

INDUSTRIALS RESTRAINED BY THE UNCERTAIN OUTLOOK.
EFFECT OF BIG INSURANCE FUSION ON THE SHARES CONCERNED.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

There was again a good deal of irregularity noticeable in the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday. A few specialities discounted particular developments, and were strong, but efforts to infuse energy into others often met with little success, and there seemed to be some substratum of distrust regarding the general outlook, which was probably still attributable to the revised deficit figures, while also an increased inclination to await reports of the financial discussions in Parliament was also noticeable. Additionally, rumours were current that the banks, under pressure from the Government, might forthwith restrict financial facilities for security business, with a view to putting restraint upon speculation. These statements lacked confirmation in well-informed quarters in Lombard street, but it is known that recent speculative exuberance has been viewed with disfavour in official circles. Among Shipping Securities, P. and O. Def. and Indo-China Def. established good advances, and Cairn Lines displayed further strength on talk of a new issue yielding a bonus to holders. In the Insurance group, the proposed absorption of the Liverpool and London and Globe by the Royal Company caused a substantial advance in the shares of the former undertaking, and the latter were strong. The Wireless group eased off under realisations, and further profit-taking in Dunlop Rubbers depressed the quotation. Textiles were flabby and lacking any good lead. Cements, Iron and Steel, and Land descriptions all encountered moderate selling, and tended in varying degrees against holders. There was some revival in Breweries, but movements were not uniformly favourable.

Bank Shares were quiet and uninteresting. In the Brewery section, City of London Ord. was strong, rising 5 to 285. Allsopp Ord. and Pref. advanced a point. Among Land Shares, Sudans, after being firm, reacted, and closed ¼ down at 8¾. Rio de Janeiro Lands were a buoyant feature, jumping 1s. to 12s. 3d. Pekin Syndicates were offered back 1s. 3d. to 34s. 6d., and the Shansi Shares 6d. to 34s. Niger Old Shares further drooped 6d. to 80s. Hudsons Bays lost 1/16 to 8 7/16, and Duffs were the turn easier at 17s. Textiles were often easier on balance. Fine Cotton Spinners eased off 1/16 to 3 11/16. Hoyles, at 3 1/16, shed the same fraction. English Sewing Cottons held their ground, but the Pref., at 1 1/16, were 1/32 easier. Calico Printers eased to 24s. 6d. Courtaulds were dull, but finally no lower to quote at 11¾. In the Catering and Supply section, Liptons mended 3d. to 33s. 3d., and Bovril Def. was good, rising 6d. to 15s. 9d. Maypole Def. picked up 1/32 at 1 1/32. Van Den Berghs held steady, but the Pref. reacted 1/16 to 1 1/16. J. Travers Ord., at 2 5/16, was 1/16 better. Anglo-Continental Supply receded ⅛ to 3⅞. Harrods issues were steady, and a sudden demand lifted Swan and Edgars 1/16 to 2¼. There was again many small declines among Iron and Steel descriptions. The Wireless group closed lower. Marconi Ord. receded ⅛ to 6 7/16; the Pref., at 3 1/16, was 1/16 down, and the American Shares relapsed 1s. to 34s. The Canadian Shares eased 3d. to 16s. 9d. Liverpool, London, and Globes were a strong spot in the Insurance list, jumping 5½ to 24 on the proposed terms of the amalgamation with the Royal Company. The latter shares, at 49, were 1 better. Royal Exchange, however, fell back 10 to 505. Commercial Unions further rose ½ to 36. Phœnix and the Pelican Shares each gained ¼ at 13¼. Alliance Old Shares settled down ¼ to 12¾. In the Shipping section, P. and O. Def. was hoisted 25 to 650, and Indo-China Def., at 66, was another 4 higher. Cairn Lines were up to 68s., a gain of 1s. J. Knights were strong, the recent rise being accelerated with a jump of ½ to 3. Lever Prefs. were in brisk demand, in connection with the new issue. Associated Cements eased off 3d. to 23s. 6d., and British Portlands gave way 1s. 6d. to 31s. Dunlop Rubbers, at 9⅛, was another 1/16 down. Price's Candle were put up 1 to 93½, without business being recorded.

STRONGER CLOSE IN MINES.
A LATE RALLY IN KAFFIRS. BURMAHS IN REQUEST.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

For the greater part of the day the Mining Markets were very quiet yesterday, apart from a few of the usual favourites. Just before the official close, however, a change came over the scene, and some fairly active bidding, which was continued in the street, lifted prices all round. As regards Kaffirs, there is no doubt that as the time approaches (probably early next month) for the publication of the quarterly reports, in which the premium on the sale of gold is promised to be disclosed, interest in the Share Market increases. It must be remembered that the premium is on the gold produced, and thus a premium of, say, 15 p.c. on the monthly output may easily mean a 50 p.c. increase in the monthly profit, or even more. There was a decidedly better feeling in this department at the close, with Anglo-American Corporation again well to the front, and showing another substantial advance. The Randfontein issues were also strongly supported, and several Finance Shares were being picked up, while among Far Easterns, Rand Selection spurted sharply. Chartered, in the Rhodesian department, felt the effects of the change of sentiment, and left off higher, while Globes marked a further sharp recovery, and B.C.A. were quietly on the up grade. As was only to be expected, De Beers and Premiers had to face a good deal of profit-taking which left them both lower, but the other Diamonds maintained a firm front. The improvement spread to the Tin department, where several of the Nigerians and a few Cornish issues went ahead, South Crofty among the latter being prominent. The rise in Silver to the record level of 66½d. per ounce failed to influence Barriers to any extent. In the Miscellaneous section, Burmahs continued to attract attention, partly on the statement made at the meeting, and Colombian Mining steadily appreciated, but British Platinum were unaffected by the announcement of the completion of the shipment of the large powerful dredger. Mexicans were harder, particularly Santa Gertrudes and Camp Bird. The Oroville Dredging and the Nechi Mines announce the formation of a new company to deal with the Constancia Mine. The new company will be called the Colombian Corporation, and the 225,000 Pref. Shares are offered to Oroville shareholders at par, in the protion of one Colombian Corporation Share for three Orovilles, and to the Nechi shareholders in the proportion of one for six.

RUBBER MARKET UNCERTAIN.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The price of Rubber was unchanged at 2s. 4½d. per lb. The Share Market showed rather an uncertain tendency during the morning, and considerable selling took place. Fresh buyers came forward later, however, and quite a firm tone prevailed at the finish. There was some outstanding features of strength. Aengsono advanced further to 63s. 1½d., Java Produce spurted 5s. to 66s. 3d., and Kapar Para were taken at £8. Djasinga continued to rise, and touched 36s. 3d., but afterwards reacted to 34s. 3d. Golden Hope gained another 2s. 6d. at 70s. Anglo-Dutch were unaltered at 56s. 9d. Batu Tiga improved a little, but Bukit Kajang were somewhat easier at 80s. Hevea Trust were taken at 33s. 9d., Killinghall at 84s. 4½d., K.M.S. were better with buyers at 36s. 3d., and Lumut were ¼ higher at 53s. 9d. Nirmala recovered to 29s. 4½d., and Oriental came to business at 97s. 6d. Parit Bruas were active at 40s. and over, and Raja Musa around 47s. 6d. Rubana put on 1/16 at 42s. 6d., as did Straits Rubber at 6 1/16 and Segamat at 50s. Sedenak show improvement at 51s., and Sungei Bahru were active up to 45s., while Sungei Buaya rose to 66s. 3d. Tamiang changed hands around 49s., and Yatiyantota were taken at 46s. 3d. In the florin section, Bukit Panjong hardened to 15s., and Kawie Java were 6d. up at 10s. 9d. Rises were also shown by London Asiatic at 8s. 1½d., Sigintang at 3s. 9d., and United Sumatra at 9s. 10½d. Eastern Sumatra touched 3s. 6½d. bid, but closed a trifle lower at 3s. 6d. middle. Stoughton Perak continued to change hands around 6d. prem. In the Borneo group, Manchester N.B. rose 1s. to 36s. 3d., and Sapong were very firm at 47s. 6d. Sekong changed hands at 22s., and Tenom advanced 1/16 to 63s. 9d.

LEADING OILS DEVELOP AN EASIER TENDENCY.
ASSAMS AND ANGLO-EGYPTIAN "B" PROVIDE STRONG SPOTS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Although slightly less active than of late, the Oil Share Market yesterday was still one of the most lively sections of the Stock Exchange. The leaders opened in good form, Shells, Burmahs, and Eagles all receiving strong support, and the prices advancing to well above the overnight's levels, but business slackened as the day progressed, and an easier tendency developed, with the result that slightly lower quotations were finally recorded, several of the more speculative favourites weakening in sympathy. Among the shares which held aloof from the dulness which developed at the close, Anglo-Egyptian "B" were a prominent feature, the shares being in keen demand all day, and the buying being of a particularly strong character. Favourable results are anticipated from the energetic drilling campaign now being conducted at Gemsah; while it is believed that the company has secured further concessions. Another strong spot was Assam Oils, in which a large business was done, it being rumoured that the company is likely to be absorbed by the Burmah Oil Company. Lobitos also came into active demand in the early hours, but failed to hold the whole of their advance. Trinidad issues left off easier, and Venezuelan Oil Concessions weakened. Slightly lower prices were quoted for one or two Russian descriptions. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.
ANOTHER BIG RISE IN SILVER.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917).........5 p.c.

Month-end influences, involving a fairly general calling in of funds for balance sheet purposes, caused money to be distinctly firmer in the Loan Market yesterday. The rate for overnight advances was firm at 3½ p.c. most of the day, and only limited balances were available at 3 p.c. towards the finish. Discounts were firm without much activity.

There was a big jump in Silver again on local scarcity. Spot bars spurted 1½d. to 66½d., while forward metal, at 64½d., was ¾d. per oz. up.

The following foreign exchanges were current:—New York cables 4.15¼ to 4.16¼, Paris 36.30 to 36.90, Amsterdam 10.98 to 11.01, Italy 44.40 to 44.70, Madrid 21.52 to 21.62, Christiania 18.31 to 18.36, Stockholm 17.37 to 17.40, Finland 100 to 102, Berne 23.28 to 23.32, Germany 124 to 128, Rio de Janeiro ninety day bills 14⅞d., Buenos Ayres transfers 55 1/16 to 55 5/16.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.
ANOTHER BANK FUSION.

A Manchester telegram says:—Barclays Bank has entered into partnership with the Union Bank of Manchester. The arrangement is that the Union Bank will hold shares in Barclays, and Barclays will secure large interests in the Union Bank. The maintenance of the Union Bank as a separate entity is safeguarded. The Union Bank has a paid-up capital of £750,000, and a reserve of £525,000. Its deposits are over 17 millions, and it has many branches in Lancashire and Yorkshire.

The Scottish and American Oil and Transport Company, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £5,000,000, of which, we understand, £1,500,000 will be offered to the public on Monday next at par. The company acquires control of the Southern Oil and Transport Corporation, of 120 Broadway, New York. The purchase price is wholly in shares, and the money now to be subscribed will be available for additional capital. The directors are all well known as men who achieve things, including Colonel Denny, of Denny Bros., shipbuilders, Dumbarton; Sir Gilbert Claughton, Chairman of the London and North-Western Railway, and Mr. T. J. Callaghan, the Chairman of L. Gueret, Ltd., of London and Cardiff, one of the largest coal exporters and bunkering depot owners in the country. The corporation have the oil production and the oil lands, and every facility for transporting to and storing the oil at seaboard as well as docks, and capacity for the loading of tankers. The new company will supply tankers, transport the oil overseas, and sell and distribute the oil through L. Gueret and Company's world-wide organisation, and, judging by the well-known ability of the directors and the complete organisation at their disposal, the company bids fair in the near future to be one of the great oil companies of the world.

Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Company announce that messages can now be accepted for transmission to the United States of America, via their Transatlantic wireless service between Ireland and Nova Scotia. The commercial rate is 4d. per word less than that charged by the Atlantic cable routes.

A few of the ascertainable advantages which the creation of a central bank for India would mean may be enumerated. In the first place, the existing "independent Treasury system," by which whenever the Government balances are swollen from whatever cause, large sums are taken off the Money market, is done away with by the removal of the cause of the phenomenon—namely, the absence of a large public or semi-public institution with which large balances could be safely and properly deposited. Further, the disadvantages attendant on employing civil servants in the making of discretionary loans, a business which demands wide knowledge of trade and industry in this country, which obviously cannot be expected from a civil servant, are removed by the existence of a central bank.

In announcing additions to the Board and to the personnel of the company, a circular issued by the Tehidy Minerals Company intimates that the directors have decided to discontinue the procedure of granting leases on a royalty basis as far as possible, and to encourage instead the formation of subsidiary companies to develop and work the various minerals on the estate, the company receiving a substantial share interest in such undertakings. With this course most people will be in agreement, the royalty basis so frequently fixed on gross revenue being one of the chief obstacles to the exploitation of the mines of Cornwall, while from the intimation may be drawn inferences as to possible coming flotations of such properties.

On Tuesday the German mark, nominally worth about 1/- before the war, had an exchange value of about 1½d. The rate was at the lowest level ever touched—viz., 135 marks to the £1. In Berlin the situation is regarded seriously. One report mentions a coming meeting next week in Amsterdam of representatives of international high finance for a discussion of the German financial difficulties and the possibilities of raising the rate of the mark.

Bullion brokers in London do not fear that there will be any melting down of silver in the near future should the price go above 5/6 per ounce. Nor is there any likelihood of 5/- notes being issued at an early date to cope with the difficulty. The value of silver must be well over 5/6 before any melting down can take place, while the volume of paper moneys is not likely to be increased in the way indicated while present conditions prevail.

Mr. A. MacDonald (at present acting agency manager) has now been appointed agency manager to the Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation.

THE GREAT INSURANCE AMALGAMATION.

BENEFITS OF THE FUSION.

In a circular to the shareholders of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, Ltd., issued yesterday, the Chairman (Mr. A. Kentish Barnes) gives further information with regard to the proposed fusion with the Royal Insurance Company, Ltd. He says:—

The scheme at the market price of Tuesday represents an immediate advance of £6 in the value of the present shares of the Liverpool and London and Globe, and an increase in the annual dividend of 3s. per share, in addition to which the shareholders will be relieved of uncalled liability to the extent of 5s. on each share. The directors feel that this offer is so attractive that it would be in the interests of the shareholders to avail themselves of it, and they therefore strongly recommend its acceptance. It is part of the agreement that at least 80 per cent. of the shares of this company should be transferred to the Royal Insurance Company. If the agreement is carried through it is believed that the combination of the organisations, resources, and funds of two such powerful companies as the Royal Insurance Company and the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company will be attended with beneficial results to the shareholders of the united companies, especially as it is a condition of the agreement that the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company and its affiliated companies shall in no way lose their individuality, but shall continue to be fully operated as separate concerns.

The interim dividend of 8s. 8d. per share already announced will be paid on 22nd proximo by the Liverpool and London and Globe.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Yesterday afternoon a concert in connection with the Royal Irish Academy of Music at Westland Row, Dublin, was largely attended, and was highly successful. Both vocal and instrumental items were cleverly interpreted, and the contributors, who were all prizewinners, showed exceptional ability. The pianoforte solos by Miss Dorothy Neville, Miss K. O'Donoghue, and Miss May Clarke, gave much pleasure; while the violin contributions by Miss Nancie Lord and Miss Gladys Crampton proved acceptable, and were loudly applauded. The vocalists were Miss Muriel Starkie and Mr. Michael Gallagher, and they were keenly appreciated for their efforts. The Misses Ida Starkie and Rhona Clarke were especially good in their duet for 'cello and piano, "Sonata in D."

Messrs. TAYLOR and ROBINSON, Solicitors, St. Andrew street.

MARTINSTOWN HOUSE,

THREE MILES FROM THE CURRAGH, SIX MILES FROM NEWBRIDGE, CO. KILDARE.

STANDING ON 129 ACRES 2 ROODS 28 PERCHES, STATUTE MEASURE.

THE RESIDENCE is in a most picturesque situation, standing in a pretty lawn, and approached by two winding carriage drives. The principal value of the property is in the timber, which comprises Oak, Spruce, Ash, Scotch Fir, Beech, etc. There are about 12 acres of grass land, the remainder of the land being under timber. The woods are intersected by bordered walks. There is a stream through the Estate, which waters the grass land. The greater portion of the timber could be cut without interfering with the amenities of the house or detracting from the residential value of the property.

The House contains entrance hall, four reception rooms, six bedrooms, four servants' rooms, kitchen, with close range, porcelain enamel bath, with hot and cold supply; sanitary accommodation. The Out-offices are in an enclosed yard, and comprise stabling for about 12 horses, coach-houses, extensive lofts, men's rooms, car sheds, cow sheds, etc.; walled-in garden, fully cultivated, and conservatory. The entire premises are in first-class condition, having been recently decorated. HELD IN FEE-SIMPLE, FREE OF RENT FOR EVER.

THE HOUSE IS AT PRESENT LET FURNISHED, BUT POSSESSION WILL BE GIVEN TO PURCHASER ON THE 1st JANUARY, 1920.

THE TIMBER includes Spruce, Oak, Ash, Scotch Fir, Poplar, Beech, Larch, Elm, and Chestnut.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF THIS MOST ATTRACTIVE PROPERTY CAN BE SEEN AT THIS OFFICE.

Walpoles' Royal Irish Linen

After reading this

Although other things may drop in price, linen most unfortunately can't. The demand far exceeds the very scanty supply, and will for a considerable time to come. Everybody is wanting it. Ladies are replenishing their linen cupboards, and thousands of new homes require supplies, now the war is over: here, in America, on the Continent—in fact all over the world. The flax available is only about one-tenth of the quantity used in pre-war days, and the cost of production has increased considerably, and is still increasing.

and this

Most of the lots to be secured during Walpoles' Sale are specially priced at and even below to-day's cost: goods from Walpoles' factory that are slightly imperfect or soiled, and goods that are left over from large contracts.
